SENATORS ACT AS SOFT COAL PARLEY FAILS

Committee Demands Explanation as 3-Day Negotiations End In Collapse.

FIRST BOARD FAILURE

Defense Mediation Group and Appeals By President Fail To End Strike.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Edward F. McGrady, special labor consultant to the war department, told a senate committee today that if the present stoppage of soft coal mining continues "the entire national defense effort will be in grave jeopardy."

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The senate's special defense investigating committee summoned soft coal miners, operators and the acting chairman of the national defense mediation board today for a "full explanation" of the collapse of negotiations for reopening the mines.

Acting Board Chairman William H. Davis, who was chairman of the three-man panel that sought to end the 28 day work stoppage, concluded negotiations last night. He announced that after exhausting every possibility in three days of almost continuous hearings further efforts by the board to obtain an agreement appeared useless.

In addition to Davis, the senate committee, chairmaned by Sen. Harry S. Truman, D., Mo., summoned President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers (CIO); Charles F. O'Neill, representing northern coal operators, and L. Ebersole Gaines, chairman of the southern coal operators.

"I have issued specific instructions for the appearance of these men and I have assurances from them that they will testify," Truman said. "We expect to obtain a full explanation of the coal situation."

The next government step toward settlement appeared not to have been decided. It was the mediation board's first failure to obtain a settlement. Likewise, personal appeals by Secretary of labor Frances Perkins and President Roosevelt to reopen the mines in the interest of national defense have failed.

Davis' final effort to settle the dispute was an appeal to the miners and operators to accept the formula proposed by the president on April 21—reopening of all mines

Fail To Settle Coal Strike

Philip Murray (left) president of the CIO; Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers, and John L. Lewis (right) president of the UMW, are shown here in Washington where they conferred with the national labor mediation board in an effort to end the nation-wide soft coal strike. The mediation board last night announced its failure to settle the strike, because southern operators would not agree to any of the suggested peace proposals. Senate investigation or perhaps presidential action to reopen the mines are now in prospect.

Lindbergh Resigns as U. S. Reserve Officer

Quits Air Corps In Huff Over Remarks By Roosevelt.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, in a letter to President Roosevelt, today resigned as a reserve officer in the United States army air corps.

The text of Col. Lindbergh's letter follows:

My Dear Mr. President:

Your remarks at White House press conference on April 25 involving my reserve commission in the United States army air corps, have of course disturbed me greatly. I had hoped that I might exercise my right as an American citizen, to place my viewpoint before the people of my country in time of peace without giving up the privilege of serving my country as an air corps officer in the event of war.

But since you, in your capacity as president of the United States and commander in chief of the army, have clearly implied that I am no longer of use to this country as a reserve officer, and in view of other implications that you, my president and my superior officer, have made concerning my loyalty to my country, my character, and my motives, I can see no honorable alternative to tendering my resignation as colonel in the United States army air corps reserve. I am, therefore, forwarding my resignation to the secretary of war. I take this action with the utmost regret, for my relationship with the air corps is one of the things that has meant most to me in life. I place it second only to my right as a citizen to speak freely to my fellow countrymen, and to discuss with them the issues of war and peace which confront our nation in this crisis.

I will continue to serve my country to the best of my ability as a private citizen.

Respectfully,
Charles A. Lindbergh.

President Roosevelt, at his press conference last Friday, asserted that it was dumb to consider a Nazi victory inevitable and classed Col. Lindbergh with appeasers who urged peace during the Revolutionary and Civil wars on the grounds that those wars could not be won.

Col. Lindbergh's name was brought into the discussion when a reporter asked why the flier had

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who today resigned his commission in the army air corps reserve, is pictured here as he warned Americans last June over the radio that "some of your representatives in Washington are considering a declaration of war" and that "the U. S. government cannot continue its pro-Allied policy without becoming involved in war with Germany." He called for mass petitions to congress to "stop this trend towards war."

Nazis Occupy Athens, Drive Toward South

Allies Reported Falling Back Across Peloponnesus as Dive Bombers Blast Troop Concentrations, Attack Ports, Shipping.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Roosevelt issued an executive order today freezing Greek credits and cash in the United States immediately.

(By Associated Press)

Adolf Hitler's swastika flag of conquest flew today over the ancient Acropolis in Athens, birthplace of the world's first democracy, while two German columns drove south across the Peloponnesus in pursuit of retreating B. E. F. troops.

Australian Army Minister Percy C. Spender said the withdrawal of British imperial forces by sea was underway, and declared:

"As far as this has proceeded, it has been successful."

Berlin reports said Nazi Stuka dive-bombers were blasting at British troop concentrations and speeding the last of the B. E. F. contingent toward a new Dunkerque.

Hitler's high command said the Luftwaffe violently strafed British and Greek columns in the Argos-Tripolis area, in the heart of the Peloponnesus.

This would indicate that the Allies so far had fallen back halfway across the Peloponnesus, apparently fighting stiff rearguard actions to cover the withdrawal of the main B. E. F. body toward embarkation ports.

The German communique said operations were proceeding "on schedule."

Occupied Sunday, Athens was the 14th European capital brought under German domination, by diplomacy or blitzkrieg fury, since the Austrian anschluss in March, 1938.

Approximately 1,000,000 square miles—an area greater than all of the United States east of the Mississippi—with more than 170,000,000 population have fallen to the Reich.

As the 23-day-old battle of the Balkans entered its final hour, Premier Mussolini's high command announced that Italian blackshirt troops had occupied the island of Corfu, off the Greek west coast, which guards the entrance to the Adriatic sea.

Heralded by martial music over German radios, the Nazi high command's report of the fall of Athens said briefly:

"Troops of the German army fighting in Greece in pursuit of the enemy . . . arrived in Athens at 9:25 a. m. (Sunday)."

Nazi press reports said the city was taken without a fight—with no bomb or shell-fire destruction. The London radio said the last message broadcast by the Athens radio stated the capital was being bombed and the streets machine-gunned by German troops.

DNB, official German news agency, said German residents cheered as the grey-green clad Nazi legions marched in, while the Greeks looked on in stoic silence.

A new theater of action appeared on the verge of opening with the French government's announcement that "Free French" forces under Gen. Charles De Gaulle, supported by British mechanized troops, were massed along the southern border of French Somaliland, East Africa.

De Gaullist followers were reported to have concentrated at Daouanleh, just inside French Somaliland, while others disembarked at Zeila, in adjoining British Somaliland. The French colony is wedged between British-conquered Eritrea on the north,

One Dies, Seven Hurt In Mishaps Near City

Bucyrus Mother, 19, Fatally Injured In Head-On Collision; Mansfield And Crestline Residents Hurt.

A 19-year-old Bucyrus mother of three children was killed and seven other persons were injured in traffice accidents in the Mansfield and Bucyrus areas over the week-end, while at least 12 fatalities were recorded in automobile mishaps in Ohio.

Mrs. Lena Holt, 19, Bucyrus, died shortly before midnight Saturday enroute to Bucyrus City hospital after she suffered a broken neck in a head-on collision. The accident occurred on route 4 about five miles south of Bucyrus and involved cars driven by George Holt, Mrs. Holt's husband, and Russell Grasley, Bucyrus, authorities said.

Holt and his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jerold Holt, who were riding in the car, were treated for lacerations and bruises. Grasley suffered possible fractures of the vertebra.

Injured Sunday afternoon at Upper Sandusky when he ran onto the track to inspect an accident during an auto race, William Jeanneret, 25, Wapakoneta, died at 6:40 p. m. Sunday in Bucyrus City hospital. Struck by another racing car, he received a skull fracture and fractures of the left leg.

Knocked down by an automobile at 11:30 p. m. Saturday at West Fourth street and Park drive, Miss Kathryn Knaggs, 19, of 522 Library court, suffered cuts and bruises on her head and body. She was taken to General hospital where her condition was described as good today by hospital attaches.

Two persons were injured, neither believed seriously, early Sun-

CO-OPERATE ON OCEAN PATROL

U. S., British Navy Appear To Be Working Jointly Against Blockade By Axis.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The United States and British navies appeared today to be actively co-operating within the limits of President Roosevelt's expanded neutrality patrol policy to relieve Axis blockade pressure on the British Isles.

British Prime Minister Winston Churchill discussed the extent and objectives of Anglo-American naval co-operation in a radio broadcast yesterday. He expressed satisfaction with the new patrol program announced by Mr. Roosevelt last week.

Churchill's remarks are expected to shift anti-interventionist fire here from the question of convoys to the extent of the neutrality patrol.

Churchill revealed that American munitions under patrol now would be brought "within reach" of Great Britain and promised that under those circumstances the British could defeat the Axis. The expanded patrol evidently will establish a "lend-lease lane" in the North Atlantic through which munitions would pass until British warships could take over actual

Bans Publication Of Data On U. S. Plane Production

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson today banned publication of airplane production figures to place them in the same category of military secrets as troop and ship movements.

Stimson, it was learned, wrote a letter to OPM officials instructing them not to release the monthly reports on plane production. The war secretary held that in most cases the reports were confusing, and did not really reflect actual output.

From the figures, it was reported, intelligence agents of the Axis powers can obtain an estimate of how many planes the U. S. is delivering to Great Britain.

THREE SEIZED

Trio Nabbed After Flight From Reformatory.

CHILLICOTHE —(INS)— Three of five inmates who scaled the fence surrounding the Chillicothe Federal Reformatory last night in the first escape from the institution in nearly a year were recaptured early today.

Still at large were Eugene M. Cannon, 28, sentenced from Cleveland Nov. 6, and Clarence E. Crawford, 20, sentenced from Elkins, W. Va., last June 24.

Emery A. Robertson was the first of the fugitives to be captured. Later Hubert V. Cline, 20, of Clarksville, Miss., and Kenneth P. Sanders, 20, of Meridian, Miss., were taken into custody. All five were sentenced for violations of the Dyer Auto Theft act.

SALES ADVANCE

Retail Stores of Ohio Show Increase of 30 Per Cent.

WASHINGTON —(CP)— Continuing a sharp upward trend, sales of retail stores in Ohio advanced 30 per cent during March over the same month last year, the bureau of the census said today.

March, 1941, sales of 1,235 retail outlets in the state totalled $26,357,443, the bureau reported. Volume for the first three months of this year was 14 per cent ahead of last year. Sales of 1,186 independent stores increased 20 per cent last month over 1940 while 49 department stores showed a gain of 41 per per cent.

Of cities of 100,000 population or more Columbus showed the biggest gain for the month, 42 per cent; followed by Youngstown, 35 per cent; Cleveland and Dayton, 32; Cincinnati, 31; Akron, 30; Toledo, 28; and Canton, 10.

AT STANDSTILL

Distribution of Meat Halted By Strike In London.

LONDON—(INS)—Distribution of meat in London came to a complete standstill today as the result of a strike of 2,500 employes in 30 meat depots.

The strike was called to protest the dismissal of 61 workers at a depot recently "blitzed" by the Nazis. This was the first major strike in war-torn London in recent months.

O. K. EXPECTED

Manufacturers Seen as Ready To Approve New Taxes.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Congressional circles heard today that a major segment of American industry, the National Association of Manufacturers, intends to endorse the treasury's decision to raise $3,600,000,000 through new taxes.

It was learned that the association's attitude was based on estimates that government spending under the defense program would jump from between $15,000,000,000 and $17,000,000,000 in the current calendar year to between $20,000,000,000 and $25,000,000,000 in the 1942 calendar year and that, therefore, strong measures should be taken to insulate the public debt against the increases such tremendous outlays otherwise would create.

BEGIN CONFERENCE

YOUNGSTOWN — (INS) — The Association of Iron and Steel Engineers began its annual spring conference today with approximately 500 delegates from Cleveland, Canton, Steubenville, Wheeling, W. Va., Chicago, Buffalo, N. Y., and Birmingham, Ala., attending.

2-POUND BABY 'HOLDING OWN'

Infant Still Being Fed With Eye-Dropper.

Mansfield's two-pound baby, born Friday at 4 p. m. at General hospital, appeared to be "holding its own today," according to the latest report from the attending physician and hospital aids.

Still being fed with an eye-dropper, the baby, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Stauffer, Ashland R. D. 1, continues to be the greatest topic of conversation at the hospital.

The baby is not kept in the maternity ward but in a private room where a nurse remains on constant duty.

KILLS SELF IN ASHLAND JAIL

Decorator Slashed Throat With Glass, Coroner Says.

ASHLAND — Robert Wayne Wilson, 35 year-old decorator, died in city jail here Sunday. Ashland County Coroner Dr. G. M. Emery said Wilson died after slashing his throat with a piece of glass.

Arrested last Tuesday, Wilson was committed Wednesday for failure to pay a fine imposed on a charge of intoxication. He is survived by his widow, Martha, and three children, Robert, William and Richard.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. Tuesday at the Denbow-Bear funeral home. Burial will be in Ashland cemetery.

HE IMPROVES

Famed Violinist Reported Still Semi-Conscious In New York.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Fritz Kreisler, 66, the violinist and composer, who suffered a skull fracture Saturday when knocked down by a truck, was reported today as "continuing to improve" at Roosevelt hospital.

He was still semi-conscious.

BURIAL PLANNED

ELYRIA — (INS) — Funeral services were planned today for Thomas Monroe, 79, park warden at Cascade park for 25 years, who died at his home Saturday after a two-week illness.

Men With False Teeth Acceptable For Army Service

False teeth will no longer keep young Richland countians out of the army, county selective service boards were told today by state draft headquarters.

Men with removable as well as fixed bridges will be eligible for military training if they qualify in every other way, the army's new ruling said.

In the past, men have been deferred if they had removable bridges, board clerks said.

It was pointed out, however, that prospective selectees must still have at least three opposing biting teeth and three opposing molars, or grinders, to qualify for the army.

Under the new ruling, a number of men who were previously deferred because they had removable bridges probably will immediately become eligible for call.

Board representatives said the lists of registrants will be checked again and those men who can qualify under the ruling will be re-classified.

DECLARES FIGHT MUST CONTINUE

Greek Premier Calls for Battle to Go On In Islands.

CANEA, Crete—(AP)—Greek Premier Emmanuel Tsouderos declared today that Greece's fight must be continued unflinchingly "in our little islands."

"Destiny," he declared, "has chosen two islands as the last but worthy ramparts of the free peoples of Europe: the great island of Britain and this great island of the Hellenes."

FIVE KILLED

Police Fire On Demonstrators In Syrian Riots.

BEIRUT, Lebanon—(AP)— Police firing on demonstrators in a new outbreak of bread riots in French-mandated Lebanon and Syria, killed five persons yesterday and wounded 20.

The latest flare-up in disorders that have been recurrent for several weeks occurred at the towns of Hama and Aleppo.

RULES FOR DAY

CANTON—(INS)—Charles Grosenbaugh, Timken vocational high school senior, today left his classes to take over the duties as mayor of Canton as part of the city's annual Hi-Y day program when students run government.

Mansfield To Get Home Guard Unit Of 62 Men And Officers

Mansfield will get a home guard unit of 60 men and two officers as the result of action taken today by Gov. John W. Bricker in signing legislation creating an Ohio State Guard to replace the National Guard, Associated Press dispatches from Columbus said.

The Home Guardsmen will be stationed at the Mansfield Armory to replace the men from Battery D who went to Camp Shelby, Miss. last fall, R. B. Gardner, past Ohio commander of the American Legion said.

Gardner, who has been active in a campaign to get a Home Guard unit for Mansfield, said a recruiting station will be set up soon at the Armory for the enlistment of men between the ages of 18 and 45.

Physical requirements for the guardsmen will not be as strict as for the regular army since the men will serve only home guard duty. They will be clad in forest green uniforms and probably will receive their training in Mansfield, it was said.

Men eligible for army training under the selective service law will not be exempted by membership in the state guard, officers pointed out. Enlisted men in the Home Guard will receive $1 a week drill pay, not to exceed $48 a year. Officers will be paid on the basis of U. S. Army officers according to rank.

The entire state guard will include 2,000 enlisted men and 140 officers.

The Mansfield guardsmen will be in the First Infantry regiment which will have headquarters in Cleveland. Other units will be located in Norwalk, Lima, Kenton, Defiance, Akron, Youngstown, and other Ohio cities.

FINIS: British Looking To Atlantic After Greek Defeat

(By Associated Press)

LONDON — Writing a tragic "finis" to the battle of Greece, the British press played up today Prime Minister Churchill's emphasis on United States aid in the battle of the Atlantic, but cautioned against expecting too much comfort from America after the important Balkan setback.

Official quarters declined to amplify the announcement of Australian Army Minister Percy C. Spender in Sydney that Australian troops already had started leaving Greece and there was a tendency here to speak of other things.

The Allied failure in Greece produced less crepe-hanging than the collapse of France last summer, and public attention focussed on the task of keeping supplies coming across the Atlantic.

The Manchester Guardian predicted that "in the future we shall see something like a division of labor between the American and British fleets, but a division of labor that does not break any political pledge."

The Daily Herald warned against writers and speakers who "still stick to their rose-colored spectacles * * * beaming in the direction of the United States."

The vitally-important battle of the Atlantic has entered upon "a far more favorable phase" for Britain because of the United States' decision to patrol the waters of the western hemisphere, Prime Minister Churchill declared in a Sunday broadcast to the empire and America.

NO PAUSE: Germans Vow To Push War In Mediterranean

(By United Press)

BERLIN—Germany will not stop at "half-way measures" in the Mediterranean war zone and is determined to "destroy completely Britain's position and power there," informed Nazi quarters said today. The Balkan campaign will not be followed by a military pause as was the case in the Polish and western campaigns, military quarters said, indicating Germany is planning new blows in the Mediterranean war theater.

Germany attaches the same importance to the war in the Mediterranean as it does to the battle of the British Isles, they asserted.

Military and political circles spoke of war to the finish without let-up as official quarters reported that ceaseless blows by the Luftwaffe and Nazi armored and parachute troops had taken a heavy toll of British in Greece and sunk or damaged four British warships and 30 other vessels over the week-end.

The Nazi air force caused vast destruction among the British troops and ships from Greece to Crete, official sources reported, and the high command said that German army units were rapidly "mopping up" in central Greece and the Peloponnesus.

The high command listed the results of attacks since Saturday as follows:

A cruiser and a merchantman of 5,000 tons were sunk on Sunday and two cruisers and 12 merchantmen were heavily damaged. On Saturday, 11 ships totalling 48,000 tons were sunk in Greek waters.

In addition, a British cruiser north of Crete and 19 other ships were damaged by bomb hits and

300 Community Fund Workers Open Drive For $64,375 Goal

An organization of 300 workers, intent on raising $64,375 for Mansfield's 1941 Community Fund campaign, began solicitation today in all parts of the city.

Although they were seeking $2,100 more than was subscribed last year, they were heartened by the report that more than $5,000 was received in letters sent Fund headquarters before the campaign had officially opened.

More than 17,000 letters were sent Mansfielders prior to the opening of the drive.

First report on progress of the drive will be made tomorrow at a luncheon meeting of workers at the Evergreens. Tomorrow's report is expected to show at least one third of the goal reached, Jane Williams, executive secretary, said today.

Headquarters for workers will be at the Y. M. C. A. Secretaries for each of the 12 divisional majors will be stationed there to receive workers' reports.

The drive moved into the schools today with the placing of coin boxes in all schools of the city.

James Hoffman, major of the food division, announced today that his workers would attempt to visit all restaurants, markets and other stores handling food today. The food division was sponsored by the Junior Association of Commerce.

Science Cites Similarities In Couples

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

So you're going to be married—

Married at home, perhaps, in all the pretty fixings that make up a bridal costume, but with no display and not too many guests. No extravagance but a lot of sentiment. It will be as plain as daylight, probably, to everybody who sees you and Harry stand up together that you know you've reached an all-time high so far as loving each other is concerned, and that you're facing a life together that will be only a jot or two below perfection.

Well, if you're that sort of girl, I have some news for you—scientific news, to the effect that human nature is on your side in this matter of married unity. It looks as if nature believed in love and believed in monogamy. Anyway, nature links married couples in a mysterious and beautiful way so that they actually tend to have the same length of life. Wise men are discovering that marriage is more than a union of hearts; it's a fusion of two selves.

Perhaps you've heard something of this sort before and didn't believe it. "Old wives' tales," somebody may have said; but old wives' tales are often true. In fact, they sum up the truth and the poetry of a people's intimate history.

But we belong to a time and a country that regard science as supreme. Johns Hopkins University, one of the great scientific centers of the country, has discovered the remarkable physical link existing between husbands and wives. Dr. Antonio Ciocco, biologist of the University and consultant of the United States Public Health Service, has made a prolonged statistical study. An English professor has made similar investigations. It is agreed that the tendency in married couples to have equal or nearly equal life-lengths is far greater than mere chance could possibly account for.

The discoveries reach still further and reveal another marvel. Two persons who have shared a long and happy life together are likely to fall victim to the same physical enemy. You've often seen items in the paper recording that John, aged 80, survived his wife Mary by only a day or two and that heart disease, or whatever it may have been, carried off both of them. It now appears that such cases are the rule rather than the exception. Science asserts it.

Johns Hopkins so far has nothing to say on the tendency on the part of long-lived couples to grow to resemble each other. Yet this rather touching fact has often been popularly commented on.

Amazing and bewildering are terms applied to this announcement that married couples share a common life-span, but so far science has gotten no farther than being amazed and bewildered. Is there an explanation of this marvelous marital link, a link that is strong enough even to resist death and that can prolong and intensify a precious human companionship? Certainly, from laboratories and statistical records no explanation is forthcoming.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, April 29.

Although the auguries for this day may read as of eventful and lively import, with the mind and the energies keyed to high purpose and definite objectives, yet there is a possibility of such high pressure being carried to excess and possibly in the wrong direction. Positive or impetuous attitudes may involve complications of a very disastrous nature, whereas restraint, deliberation and conservatism might turn the balance against loss and misery. The support and suggestions of superiors, elders or the domestic circle might be worthwhile.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be confronted by a year in which their own restraints, keen insight into threatening involvements, backed up by sound sense, might prove profitable in an important way or in a new direction. But there is a tendency to be carried into brilliant coups by high tension and impetuosity because of over-stimulated mental and physical energies. Treacherous and unprofitable entanglements may be averted by giving heed to superiors, elders or the home folks. Be alert to some sort of public danger or calamity.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"Sit perfectly still!" the gangster commanded. "Don't you dare to move, and don't get any notions into your head that these lights going out will give you any chance to get out of here. I have a most effective silencer pistol trained right on you—I can see in the dark—and I shan't hesitate to use it. The lights will be back in a second or two probably. They fail sometimes."

"I did not need his command to remain motionless. My muscles felt as if they were suddenly paralyzed. My hearing is unusually acute, and simultaneously with the lights going out I had heard a queer sound coming from the end of the car facing me and to the back of the gangster.

It was the faintest sound possible, more like the careful closing of a door than anything else, but in the seconds which followed my intuition, or my imagination, warned me that some person besides the gangster, myself, and the dozing old man at the other end of the car, who, incidentally, had not awakened, was inside the car.

But the young gangster did not share my clairvoyance, if, indeed, I told myself bitterly, I was not suffering from delusions. His voice was impatient now, and I guessed that the unexpected darkness was making him jittery.

Dicky to the Rescue.

"I have a flashlight," he said "and I'm going to look around a bit. But I'm keeping its light on you, also my silencer revolver, so don't try any funny business."

"Hoist those hands way up," a crisp voice just behind him commanded. "Keep the pistol and the flashlight in them. That's right. I see you get the persuasion of my revolver, planted against your right ear. It's quite effective."

"Dicky!" I gasped, for the sound of his voice coming so unexpectedly out of the darkness had banished the paralysis of my muscles and my thoughts.

"At your service, old dear," he said, debonairly. "And I'm going to need yours as soon as these lights come on. I told the conductor I'd need only three minutes of darkness, so they ought to be along any second now."

As if his voice had been a button throwing a switch, the lights in the car flared up, silhouetting an unforgettable tableau for me. The young gangster with paper-white face, from which venomous eyes were blazing, had his hands held high above his head, one holding a flashlight, the other a pistol. My husband stood just behind him, holding his own pistol against the gangster's ear. I paid mental tribute to the iron poise of the young thug. He must have known that his game was up when he felt the cold muzzle of the revolver against his ear, yet he had not uttered a sound.

"Glad to see me, Sweet?" Dicky asked as blithely as if he had just come home from a holiday. His eyes were dancing, and I knew that despite the seriousness of the situation, he was enjoying his part of it hugely.

"Yes." I made the monosyllable emphatic but I could not get another word out. Dicky could not see the murderous eyes of the gangster. I could, and they turned me faint with fright, although I knew that Dicky had the better of the contest.

"Such enthusiasm!" my husband mocked, but his eyes softened into tenderness, and I knew he understood what I was undergoing. Then his eyes flicked to the dozing old man at the end of the car.

"Safely asleep, I take it?" he questioned.

"Yes," I said again, then found voice to add—"He didn't awaken when the lights went out—"

More Threats.

"Or on," Dicky finished. "Well! that's all to the good. And now, to finish off this lad properly.

"What do you think you're going to do?" the gangster snarled, but I noticed that he kept his voice low, evidently wishing no one to overhear him. "I'll get you and your wife and your children for this if it takes—"

"Keep a civil tongue in your head," Dicky growled, "or this trigger finger is apt to get nervous. Madge, are you in shape to help me now?"

Talking Of Oneself Can Bore Others

By MME. QUI VIVE

"Why," asked my neighbor, "don't you write an article about the poor dear who makes herself an isolationist because she bores everybody to ears talking about herself and her family?"

"You tell it and I'll write it," I said.

"All right. Here goes. I have a case that bothers me. I live in a small town where people are neighborly. We have adjoining gardens; we work in them and we chat over back fences. We lend stepladders and wheel barrows, and if a man chops down a dead tree on Saturday afternoon, his neighbor helps. It is all very pleasant. It is real living. But my neighbor, Mrs. Smith, just seems out of it. She isn't interested in anything outside of her four walls.

"When she first moved among us we all called on her. She didn't seem to be very well, had two little girls, and we tried to be helpful. When she looked tired, I'd take the children into my house to play with my sweet little bothers so she would have a rest. But she never took care of mine. I did that sort of thing for two years then I quit. Because every minute I was with her I had to listen to her complaints.

"She would tell me her family troubles until I felt embarrassed, didn't know what to say. It's sort of like walking in on a woman who is changing her clothes. Her husband is a nice enough chap, seems fond of her and the children, but she never had anything pleasant to say about him. I can't understand why a morbid woman like that can possibly fancy that others are interested in her personal affairs.

"She went to a party now and then, couldn't get to me fast enough to tell me all about it. What food the hostess served, what the other women wore, what time they got home. Gosh, it's like listening to somebody telling the whole story of a movie. I'd be busy with my own home activities, anxious to get on with them, but there she'd sit for an hour or two, hashing over a lot of stuff in which I had no interest whatever.

"She never reads anything. She has no hobbies. She doesn't enjoy outdoor sports. Why can't she open the windows of her mind, let the fresh air blow in, and clear out the mildew of self-centeredness? There's so much in the world to catch one's fancy. Any woman with an observing eye finds amusing incidents every day that she can pass on. Gay chatter makes life freer of cares.

"Well, my neighbor now complains that nobody ever comes to see her. She's good-looking, has pretty clothes, spends a lot of money at the beauty shop, but what good does it do her? She has no charm, doesn't know how to cultivate it. She makes no effort to be liked."

CHECK BLAZE

MILLERSBURG—Answering its 13th call this month, which was one more than the Millersburg fire department answered through out the entire year of 1940, the department put out a woods fire which threatened a barn on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Sterling, near Holmesville at 1 a. m. Sunday. Origin of the fire was unknown.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

THE GREATEST WARNING

When each of your opponents has bid a side suit in addition to the well-fitting trump suit, you have the greatest of all possible warnings against doubling their high contract with a lot of honors in your hand. Unless those honors are in the trump suit, they are likely to prove of no value at all on defense against the hostile contract. A cross-ruff is indicated by that sort of bidding, and you will find that a trump is usually deposited on any trick on which you play one of your honors. This is especially true if your honors are in second-round cards, such as kings and king-queens, as distinguished from aces.

	♠ A 9 8 3 ♥ 3 ♦ Q 10 7 6 ♣ A 7 5 3
♠ Q 7 5 2 ♥ 6 5 2 ♦ A 5 3 2 ♣ 8 2	N. W. E. S.	♠ K J 10 4 ♥ K Q J 4 ♦ K 9 8 4 ♣ 4
	♠ 6 ♥ A 10 9 8 7 ♦ J ♣ K Q J 10 9 6

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
4 NT	Pass	5 ♥	Pass
6 ♣	Pass	Pass	Dbl

East rued the day he made that double. Disregarding the conventional meaning of the double in their system — which asks the partner to lead the suit bid on the side by the hand which becomes the dummy—West made really a better lead against this kind of bidding, a trump. He put out the club 2, which South won with the K.

Came then a great cross-ruff. The heart A was scored, the heart 7 ruffed by the Club 5, the spade A taken in the spade 3 ruffed by the club 6, the heart 8 by the club 7, the spade 8 by the club 9, the heart 9 by the club A, the spade 9 by the club 10, the club Q and J collected, the now set-up heart 10 came home, and the diamond J was given up to the A.

East was plenty embarrassed by the fact that the only trick scored by his side was taken by his partner by the diamond A, which would have produced a grand slam if held by the opponents.

ARTIST TUTORED HORSES TO PURCHASE PALETTE AND PAINTS

NEW YORK—(INS)—Traditionally speaking, expertness in horsemanship is hardly ever thought of as a prerequisite to success in art—but to tall, bearded Fernando Puma, New Mexican painter who is currently holding his second one-man show at the Bonnestell Gallery in New York, it provided the funds to hire a studio and buy paints and brushes.

Raised in the southwest, Puma began to ride horseback at the age of six. Later, in his teens, he studied the standard works of European masters on the scientific methods of training horses. After several years of experience riding the range on New Mexican sheep ranches, he began to train horses for shows.

But in his spare time he was painting and finally, abandoning New Mexico, he packed his spurs and riding whip and set out for New York to pursue a career in art.

But whenever paintings did not sell and the Puma treasury needed replenishing, he turned to his old friends the ponies. He taught riding and, in particularly lean seasons, he returned to Santa Fe, where he worked on a dude ranch instructing would be cowboys how to remain in the saddle.

Now, however, since his first one-man show in New York in 1939, Puma has established himself as an artist. The spurs and whip serve as decorations on his studio walls, sharing space with the gigantic canvases — which, critics say, mark him as one of the most original among newer painters.

Puma is a crusader who believes that the world's worst evil is "man's inhumanity to man." In his huge, bold and colorful canvases, he depicts an outcast on a park bench, men and women picking over a dump-heap for food and a child of today in a gas mask, grotesque as a gnome.

Others show a fairly old woman crouching before the ruins of her bomb-destroyed cottage and a mother mourning beside the body of her child after an air raid. These he describes as "pictures for enlightenment." If the world would accept their message, Puma says, it would outlaw war and poverty.

SIGNS UP

Court Holds Husband To Contract With Wife.

ATLANTA, Ga.—(U.P.)—A Fulton county court decision may result in a series of contracts being signed between wife and husband.

Mr. and Mrs. Leland O'Callaghan, of Atlanta, had signed a contract in which he agreed to pay her $200 a month to operate their home. O'Callaghan got behind in his payments and his wife sued him.

After eating breakfast together, the two appeared in court—each represented by an attorney.

Judge T. O. Hathcock ruled that O'Callaghan had signed away his rights as head of the household when he put his signature to the contract and ordered him to pay his wife the arrears money up to date.

DISINHERITED

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.—(U.P.)—Fuzzy Wuzzy, 12-year-old fox terrier of the late Mrs. Gertrude H. Wilson, will receive life care, but her son, Richard H. Dickinson of Danville, will get none of her $50,000 estate, according to her will.

The entire estate was left in trust to her brother, Dudley W. Fitch, Los Angeles, Cal., and ultimately will go to Christ church, Hartford, Conn.

BORROW HORSES

Mad Bull Puts Police In Boots and Saddles.

LEROY, N. Y.—(U.P.)—The Leroy police force abandoned its motorized equipment for boots and saddles when answering an emergency call.

It all happened when a maddened bull went on a rampage on a nearby farm. Unable to capture the animal and fearful it might kill or maim someone, farmers put in a call to headquarters for aid. Nonplussed, law enforcement members formed a "posse," borrowed horses from a riding academy and galloped off in pursuit of their quarry.

After an hour of arduous chasing the versatile "cowboys" cornered and shot the bull.

STOP TO DRINK, PARK TIME BOMB

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND —(U.P.)— A large army lorry wheeled into the courtyard of a hotel and pulled up

"Just in time for a drink," commented one of the two soldier occupants as they got out and went into the bar.

The landlord noticed that they belonged to the Royal Engineers, and then glanced at the lorry in the courtyard. Suddenly he froze.

The lorry carried an unexploded 1,000-pound time-bomb.

TOO MUCH IRON

SANTA CRUZ, Cal. —(U.P.)—The family cow of Policeman Ben Krupp, ailing for some time past, finally had to be killed. The autopsy disclosed that the cow had too much iron in its system. The stomach contained an assortment of baling wire, rusty nails, bolts and other hardware.

Probe Jail Fire That Burns 3 Inmates

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Speaking For Myself.

IT OCCURS to me that show business has changed a great deal since the old days in the matter of feuds. They stage fake feuds now. In the old days, they didn't need fake feuds. They had real ones. They had rip-roaring ones that steamed up the Main Stem and froze the balmy air of the Hollywood lots

I can recall the era when Gloria Swanson and Constance Bennett waged war over everything from the Marquis de la Falaise to the cut of a gown, and,brother, that was not faked.

The girls did not retire to their dressing rooms after a hot ten rounds of sparring and go into an embrace as happens now. They did not need press agents to promote their squabbles; they needed press agents to keep them out of the papers.

I remember when Al Jolson and Harry Richman wouldn't exchange a how-do-you-do for all the rice in China or all the moolah on Broadway. And it wasn't so long ago that Marlene Dietrich and Mae West, both working on the same lot, staged scenes of jealousy and genuine bickering that were enough to turn executives' toupees gray overnight.

Now the feuds are strictly promotion It's all in the interests of good, clean comedy, like the Jack Benny-Fred Allen feud. The public is on it, and nobody minds that is isn't the genuine article.

Sometimes I get wondering what the bathing suits of the future will look like If some manufacturer would only invent a bathing suit that always looks as if Lana Turner were inside it, he'd have something . . .

The other day a Lindy table-sitter asked me "If you were sentenced to a year's exile from this country, where would you go?" I said, "Hawaii," and I can't wait to be exiled . . .

Young people these days seem to be a bit worried about taking steps toward the altar when the draft board might any day be taking steps toward them.

I heard of one lad who wrote a personal letter to President Roosevelt on that subject, asking his advice. The answer, if any, should be published. . . .

I wonder if Tommy ("Betty Lou") Riggs is ever flabbergaster by the little girl's voice that comes out when he opens his mouth? I'd be astonished to suddenly find myself a baritone . . .

Never saw such beautiful babes as the ones that grace the stills of "Ziegfeld Girl." Ziegfeld would have cast an approving eye over them . . . I wish Danny Kaye would take it easy He's looking thin, pale and tired—and no wonder.

Public libraries fascinate me. So do big banks . . . Latest silly pun to capture my fancy is that item on the Chinese menu of the Forbidden City. Tong sandwich! . . .

Another indication that civilization has advanced is the sudden disappearance of Scotch, absent-minded professor and mother-in-law jokes. . . . .

Tallulah Bankhead certainly has lost weight. Looked very glamorous at the Saroyan opening.

I've often wondered what a theater could do to keep people from having to brush past others in the same row. In Utopia I imagine there is a system where seats can be lowered to a floor below and be either immediately refilled or recalled by button when needed

That's the same Utopia which outlaws double features, candy wrapper crunchers, plot tellers, and those who whisper above the sound track . . . I like men in tweeds . . .

I'm always impressed by the two neat and parallel creases in a sailor's collar. They never vary. . . .

I don't like those shirts with long points on the collar . . . Whenever I see Vivienne Segal sauntering across a stage deftly singing a wicked song, I yearn for a flashback of her as a sweet prima donna in a tulle-and-roses operetta. . . .

Wonder if there's anything to the horrible rumor that Lucius Beebe appeared in Washington Easter Sabbath in a poorly-pressed cutaway?

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — "Citizen Kane." Original screenplay by Herman J. Mankiewicz and Orson Welles. Directed by Orson Welles. Principals: Orson Welles, Joseph Cotten, Dorothy Comingore, Everett Sloane, Ray Collins, George Coulouris, Agnes Moorehead, Paul Stewart Ruth Warrick, Erskine Sanford, William Alland. Fortunio Bononova, Gus Schilling, Philip Van Zandt, Georgia Backus, Harry Shannon, Sonny Bupp, Buddy Swan.

After "Citizen Kane" was previewed here, two other films scheduled for showing the following days were postponed, by strange coincidence, until another time. Perhaps it was mere coincidence, these simultaneous cancellations, but I like to think it was in deference to the fact that we had all seen something new and might not look so kindly on new versions. however attractive. of something old. Few things in show business are so dreaded as anti-climaxes. "Citizen Kane" makes the run-of-the-mill movie decidedly old hat.

One-man-band Welles. the upstart of the Mercury theater. came out to Hollywood with carte blanche to make a picture his own way—to write it, direct it, star in it, produce it. It was an incredible contract. quickly dubbed "RKO's folly" as Hollywood jeered. The jeers increased as Welles announced first one film. and then another, abandoning each in turn. "Citizen Kane," his third choice, stuck.

It is a strong piece, fraught with moments of dramatic dynamite, with ironic comedy, with sharp insight. Yet the innovations are in the manner of its screening, its technical approach, its photography.

Not entirely new is its flashback survey of Kane's life. Preston Sturges. in "The Power and the Glory" (1933), reconstructed a hero's character in somewhat similar style

New and exciting is the dynamic pace, the skillful camera experimentation, the ultimate impression that the lens has been relieved of taboos and made to work harder than ever before in its story-telling job.

The screenplay is tight, the dialog expert. and yet it is the camera. in the summing-up. that has fascinated novice Welles most tellingly.

Gregg Toland's photography kicks over the traces. He shoots from the floor, from the ceiling. from incredible angles; he shoots straight into the light (one mustn't, you know), and achieves effects startling in dramatic force and realism. If ever a camera did its master's bidding, however exacting, Toland's does.

$380,000 ADDED TO OHIO BUDGET BILL BY GROUP

Committee Seeks $125,000 For State Parks, Declares Balance Maintained.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Approximately $380,000 has been added to the biennial appropriation bill, which the senate finance committee hopes to recommend for passage tonight.

The measure, principal business of the 94th general assembly, contained about $351,800,000 for operation of the state government in 1941-42 when passed by the house several weeks ago.

Chairman Fred Adams of the senate finance committee, which added the $380,000, asserted that the budget still was in balance. Gov. John W Bricker said it contemplated a surplus of $450,000 in the general revenue fund at the end of 1942

The largest item attached to the bill in the senate was $125 000 to purchase land for two state park sites on Lake Erie one east of Cleveland, and the other west. The senators also tacked on $65,000 for installation of a senate elevator. purchases of a $5,000 rug and air conditioning

If the appropriation bill gets out of the finance committee tonight, it likely will be brought up for a vote in the senate tomorrow. Then it must return to the house for concurrence in amendments.

Its enactment will mean the legislature has cleared the last major hurdle between it and adjournment. House leaders have tentatively fixed May 8 as the last working date with sine die adjournment scheduled May 20.

Legislation to establish a state athletic commission, with sole jurisdiction over boxing and wrestling, is on the senate's calendar tonight. It was introduced by Sen. John Kilbane (D.,Cleveland) former world's featherweight boxing champion.

March Job Placements Show 26.4 Per Cent Increase.

Job placements by the Mansfield employment security center in March showed an increase of 26 4 per cent over February as new claims for unemployment decreased 29.2 per cent, C. W. Handley, district manager of the state bureau of unemployment compensation, announced today.

March placements totaled 233 of which 154 were jobs lasting more than 30 days. New claims filed during the month totaled 143.

At the beginning of April, there were 1,648 workers of all types registered with the center as available for work. Handley said this was a decrease of 13.4 per cent compared with February.

Unemployed city workers were paid $14,017.94 in benefits for 1,463 weeks of unemployment, a decrease of 12.6 per cent.

WEEK-END FIRES CAUSE BIG LOSS

Damage Totals Thousands of Dollars In Separate Ohio Blazes.

(By Associated Press)

Fires in widely separated Ohio towns caused damage totaling thousands of dollars over the week-end.

The main building of the Wells Junior high school in downtown Steubenville, insured for $300,000, was swept by flames before dawn Sunday. Firemen saved the annex but advanced no probable cause of the blaze.

Marshal Ran Smith of Cheasapeake estimated at $35.000 the loss at the razed Comstock Chevrolet Co. plant east of here. Eighteen motor vehicles were lost in the fire of undetermined origin.

Fire chief Robert Clark of Kent reported that damage probably would be "several thousand dollars" in a fire which swept the paint shop of the Davey Compressor company plant there.

Former Gov. Martin L Davey is vice president of the company and his brother, Paul. is president. The factory makes air compressors.

Chief Clark indicated spontaneous combustion was the cause of last night's blaze.

LIST WINNERS IN MAP EXHIBIT

4,000 IDLE OHIO MINERS ASK STATE TO GIVE FAMILIES FOOD

(By Associated Press)

ATHENS — Representatives of 4 000 Hocking valley coal miners, idle since April 1 during negotiations for a new wage contract, are going to ask the state to feed their families until they can get back on their feet.

H. T. Rainey of Glouster, district representative of the United Mine Workers union will meet State Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood in Columbus tomorrow.

Conferring with them will be state representatives from Athens, Hocking and Perry counties, State UMW Vice President Thomas Price and one or more Athens county commissioners, Rainey said

In Columbus, Sherwood declined comment on the situation pending the conference.

Rainey said that miners' credit had been shut off at some company stores, that their last pay checks were received April 15 and that none would be forthcoming in less than a month after the mines re-opened. The mine workers are not receiving unemployment compensation, he added.

Richland county probate court workers frequently get requests from former residents of the county to help them trace their ancestry, but they received one today from a Granville woman that the county had no records to cover. The woman asked for information dating back to 1808 on the life of David Jones who was born in 1765 and lived in the Mansfield area. The county government was not set up until 1813 and there are no authentic records available beyond that date, court attaches said.

Fellow firemen at the Central station were chuckling today over Captain Paul Young's latest predicament. During the greater part of the winter, Young frequently expressed enthusiasm over a new type of lawnmower he had ordered. It seems that the mower cut grass by a method different than the old stand-bys. Last week, Young received the mower and tried it on his lawn. It did little more than comb the grass rather than cut. His indignation was increased when he found he could not get a refund.

TALKS TONIGHT

Former War Correspondent to Speak at Senior High.

Eugene Lyons, former war correspondent and an authority on Russia, will discuss that country's place in the European conflict at 8:15 p. m. today in Senior high school auditorium.

Lyons, who is editor of the American Mercury magazine and author of "Assignment In Utopia," a book on Russia, will be brought to the city by the Mansfield Rotary and University clubs. His topic will be "What's Going On In Russia." The talk will be open to the public without charge.

Moscow correspondent for the United Press for six years, Lyons was the first American to interview Stalin. He has firsthand knowledge of the Soviet picture and is expected to help clear up questions concerning Russia's probable course in the present war. He will answer questions after his talk.

Lyons' book, "Assignment In Utopia," was described by Dorothy Thompson, noted columnist, as "the most important and most moving book written so far by an American on Russia."

POLICE THINK WOMAN SET BLAZE IN CELL

Spectator Tells of Hearing Calls For Help; Firemen Find Bodies.

(By International News Service)

BELLE VERNON, Pa. — A thorough investigation was planned today into the fire at the untended Belle Vernon jail Sunday morning which took three lives, including that of a young woman who had been detained for blowing an automobile horn too loudly.

The dead were: Frances Novasci, 26, of Fayette City; James Moran, 54. Belle Vernon, and Nick Pushnak, 22, of Charleroi, who succumbed to burns in a hospital last night

Police Chief Frank Camino said he thought the fire started in Miss Novasei's cell on the second floor of the jail. He declared that a spectator to the fire had told him he had passed the jail house about 7 a. m. and heard Miss Novasei calling for help. The fire was discovered two hours later.

Chief Camino said it was his personal belief that the woman had deliberately set the fire in order to attract attention. Her burnt body was found on the floor of her cell only eight hours after she had been booked on a disorderly conduct charge.

The two men were in adjoining cells on the first floor. Moran, who had been booked on a petty charge, was dead when firemen reached him. Pushnak, charged with disorderly conduct, was revived but succumbed in the hospital last night

Miss Novasei had been arrested in Fayette City about 1:30 a. m. for blowing the horn of her car too laudly while parked with a young man. Told by a policeman she would have to desist, because of the hour, she replied with several more loud blasts and was taken into custody.

Flames Destroy Ether House At Powder Factory

INDIANHEAD, Md.—(INS)—An early morning fire today destroyed the ether house of the big naval powder factory in Indianhead.

The blaze broke out about 3 a. m. and was finally put out several hours later by the factory's own fire equipment. No other parts of the plant were touched by the flames.

A night shift was working in the ether house when the blaze started, but no one was hurt.

Naval officials at the factory said they had no idea as to how the fire started, but pointed out that working with ether is "very hazardous" and that the fire could have broken out from a number of ways.

Beauford Glover, graduate of Mansfield's amateur fistic ranks, puts his undefeated record as a professional welterweight fisticuffer on the line tomorrow night in one of the five-round prelims on the all-star card at Cleveland's Arena, meeting Sammy Secreet.

So well do the Cleveland promoters think of the Golden Glover that he's been placed on the card ahead of Cleveland's Jimmy Reeves, who just a few short months ago was ranked among the world's first five light-heavies. Reeves is on the curtain lifter and Glover goes in the second bout.

Glover's opponent is a three-time winner of the Pittsburgh Diamond belt, and is a favorite in Chicago and Detroit rings, so it was with no idea of prolonging the Glover's unbeaten record that this match was made.

Topping the program will be a pair of 10-heaters, with Maxie Berger of Montreal, junior welter champ, meeting Pete De Ruzza, and Lenny Mancini of Youngstown tangling with Billy Marquart of Winnipeg.

But for you and me the belting of the Beauford should be the highlight.

Big Field Lines Up For Derby

Fans Shudder at Thought Of 13 Going to Post.

By SID FEDER

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—(AP)—By applying the available information to (a) a crystal ball, (b) ouija board and (c) the smart guy's guess, you come up with the amazing deduction today that the field in Saturday's Kentucky Derby probably will contain 13 or 14 horses.

With Lou Tufano's Market Wise added to the list for his Wood Memorial victory at Jamaica last Saturday, and with Jack Howard's Curious Coin, Clarence Buxton's Master Henry and Ogden Phipps' King Cole subtracted after the same event, the total still on hand for the $75,000 added jackpot makes up the biggest field since War Admiral knocked off 19 others back there four years ago.

King Cole, a weakening third in the Wood, was declared out last night after it was found that a leg had "filled."

Eleven of those still in the running, led by the 8-5 future book favorite, Our Boots, from Roy Martin's stable, are absolutely A-1 cinches to answer when the bugle brings that annual lump into your throat with "My Old Kentucky Home" Saturday afternoon.

* * *

As things now shape up, here is the way the field of horses and owners may look Saturday, provided the derby trial Wednesday doesn't perform any major surgery or surprises.

Reds, Dodgers Meet Head On

Two Locomotives That Are Goin' to Bump.

BROOKLYN—(AP)—If it's not too tame, you can borrow a line from the Casey Jones ballad to describe today's clash of the Cincinnati Reds and Brooklyn Dodgers at Ebbets field:

"There's two locomotives and they're goin' to bump."

The Dodgers have up a bit more steam with a string of six straight victories, but the Reds have been shoveling on the coal after losing four straight and copped seven of their last eight.

* * *

At Cincinnati the first orders for 1941 world series tickets rolled in last week but here in Flatbush there's the hope eternal that General Manager Larry MacPhail's "next year" is this one.

Paul Derringer, or possibly Junior Thompson is Manager McKechnie's messenger - of - doom against Whitlow Wyatt. The Reds beat Wyatt in every one of five meetings last year, while Derringer had a clean record against Brooklyn of 4 and 0.

The Reds played tight ball yesterday to sweep a two-game series with Pittsburgh, 3-2.

Elbie Fletcher's short homer after Deb Garms' single in the first accounted for the Pirate tallies against Bucky Walters' six-hit hurling. The Red fielders featured an errorless game by pulling Walters out of a hole in the sixth. After trapping a runner between third and home they followed with a double play with the bases filled in that frame, which saw Walters give two of his four walks.

Truett Sewell went the route for the Pirates and yielded only six hits, but a wild fourth ball to Harry Craft in the sixth with two out and Jim Gleeson and Ernie Lombardi on base by singles, cost Sewell the game as Gleeson scored.

Tribe Hurlers Must Be Good

They Learn Fast That Mates Won't Hit.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians' pitchers must be convinced by now that they are going to have to hurl virtual air-tight ball every day if they want to win.

The Redskins have manufactured only 41 runs in 12 games for a little over three a contest and the average isn't likely to get any better with only two regulars currently hitting above .300.

Bob Feller took his third victory of the young season yesterday although the Indians gave him only two runs. He held Detroit to six hits and one run.

* * *

Al Milnar hoped for more offensive backing against the Tigers today in the series finale. The Bengals named Hal Newhouser to keep the Cleveland bats silent.

Jeff Heath's mighty drive into the lower right field stands with Hal Trosky on second produced the Tribe's runs in the seventh inning. Hal was on base through a double.

Gerry Walker's single and double and Ray Mack's single were the only other hits Cleveland was able to make off Schoolboy Rowe.

Detroit scored in the third on Frankie Croucher's double and Charley Gehringer's single. Feller had better control than usual, walking only three batters. He fanned five.

The eastern teams start their Cleveland invasion tomorrow with Philadelphia the first to arrive. The Athletics will be here three days to be followed by Boston for two games, Washington for three and New York for two.

* * *

Al Smith, Jim Bagby and Feller are expected to pitch against Philadelphia.

East and West Meet 1st Time

Inter-Sectional Warfare Starts in Big Leagues.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(AP Sports Writer)

THIS is the week the East and West meet for the first frantic showdown of the infant major league campaign and the two circuits cleared their decks for action over the week-end by elevating a pair of new leaders—the Cleveland Indians and St. Louis Cardinals.

* * *

The intersectional strife was scheduled for a fitting start today at Brooklyn with the world champion Cincinnati Reds colliding with the Dodgers as a sort of signal rocket for the full fireworks that will be set off tomorrow.

* * *

Since losing its first four games, Cincinnati has won seven of its last eight and has mopped up everybody in the west except St. Louis, which is a score that will have to be settled later.

The Reds completed their divisional dynamiting yesterday with a 3-2 triumph over the Pittsburgh Pirates as Bucky Walters bested Rip Sewell in a pitching duel.

The Dodgers, after droping their first three games to the New York Giants, have captured 10 of their last 11 contests and bumped the Giants out of the National league lead with a 7-5 decision yesterday. This was Hugh Casey's third straight victory, all at the expense of the Giants.

The Cardinals, who will invade the Giants' Polo Grounds tomorrow, nailed their fifth triumph in six starts Sunday with an 8-5 conquest of the Chicago Cubs. The St. Louis sluggers pounded four Chicago chuckers for 13 hits, including a triple and a double by John Mize.

* * *

This success was enough to lift the Cardinals into first place yesterday, but the squeeze is so tight that Brooklyn can move into the lead if it wins today while the Redbirds are traveling.

In Sunday's other National league encounter the Boston Bees snapped their losing streak with an 8-3 decision over the pitiful Phillies. Sailor Bill Posedel held the tailenders to three hits and had a shutout till Ben Warren homered with two on in the ninth.

Cleveland gained the American league lead by nosing out the Detroit Tigers 2-1 while the Washington Senators ambushed the New York Yankees 6-3. In the spectacular mound struggle at Cleveland, Schoolboy Rowe gave only five hits to six the Tigers collected off Bob Feller.

* * *

Steve Sundra, who was sold to the Senators by the Yanks earlier this month, held his old teammates to five hits.

The Chicago White Sox shaded the St. Louis Browns 7-6 by getting 15 hits to the Brownies' 12.

The Boston Red Sox and Philadelphia Athletics were rained out.

FIRST STRIKEOUT AT HANDS OF BOB FELLER

CLEVELAND —(INS)— Birdie Tebbetts, Tiger catcher, today said his strikeout yesterday was the first time that Bob Feller had been able to retire him on strikes.

Tebbetts played in the game Feller struck out 18 Bengals to set a new major league record, but he was not among Rapid Bob's victims.

SPORTS GOSSIP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK — (The Special News Service—Don Budge announces via a secretary that he'll make an important announcement here May 5. Three guesses . . . Market Wise's win in the Wood Memorial cut his price in the Derny books from 40 to 15 to 1. The tip has been out for 10 days that Market Wise would win the Wood . . . Here are tonight's fight winners—Bob Montgomery over Nick Peters at Philly; Nick Camarata over Steve Padon at New Orleans; Ralph De John over Lloyd Marshall at San Francisco . . . Notre Dame wouldn't send its shot putter, Jim Delaney, to the Penn Relays until it was assured Georgetown's Al Blozis was going to—the Drake Relays.

RICHES TO RAGS

Exactly four years ago last Saturday, the proud winner of the rich Wood Memorial stakes at Jamaica was a horse named Melodist . . . Well, day before yesterday while Market Wise was winning the Wood, poor old Melodist was staggering in among the also-rans in an $800 claiming race at Sportsmans park . . .

THE WEEK'S WASH

Footballer Gil Bouley, whose visit to Notre Dame caused all the to-do up east, returned to Boston college and went into a huddle with the dean . . . Uncle Wilbert Robinson must have grinned in his grave down on Sea Island, Ga., when the Dodgers got two men on third base at the same time the other day. . . . Modest Patty Berg is going around telling the newspaper boys she is over-rated. Like hell you are, Patty . . . Uncle Sam turned down Abe Feldman, veteran heavyweight trial horse — bad dogs . . . Take it from Al Schacht, the present day "screw ball" is nothing but a carbon copy of old Christy Mathewson's famous "Fadeaway."

JINGLE TO STENGEL

Old Casey is a magnate now,
We're happy to relate,
And naturally, he'll have to keep
An eye upon the gate.
But this much is a lead pipe cinch,
His heart belongs upon the bench.

SPORTS COCKTAIL

Joe McCarthy thinks Jerry Priddy needs only one big day to shake off his nervousness and get going . . . More than 150 of Billy Soose's admirers from Sharon and Farrell, Pa., are coming in a special train to root for him against Ken Overlin . . . The New York World-Telegram installed Johnny Vander Meer in its "star-of-the-week" spot . . . Springer Gibson of the Chattanooga Evening Times thinks all that is needed to make the Ty Cobb-Babe Ruth golf match picture complete is to get Bill Klem for referee . . . Here's a second to that motion . . . When Frank Leahy told 'em he was in New Orleans on business, he didn't mean maybe. All he did was grab off two New Orleans prep school stars . . . The Yanks say if there is rabbit in the National League ball, there is still more of it in the American League pellet.

Bananas Bonura Bangs That Apple

(By Associated Press)

Affable Zeke Bonura is still in there firing for another chance at the big leagues.

Zeke, shipped to Minneapolis of the American Association by the Chicago Cubs, is batting the ball at a terrific pace. The veteran first baseman got at least one hit in every Minneapolis game so far, and is hitting about .500 in the Millers' drive for first division after a slow start.

Zeke got three hits—two of them doubles—in six trips yesterday, as the Millers defeated Indianapolis, 7 to 1, and played eight innings to a 4-4 tie in the Sabbath nightcap.

Kansas City, another slow starter, moved into fourth place with a double victory over Columbus, 5-3 and 2-0.

League-leading Louisville split a twin bill with St. Paul, winning the opener 7-5 and Louisville the nightcap, 8-3.

Milwaukee and Toledo also broke even in a double header. The Hens took the first contest, 5-3, and Milwaukee the aftermath, 2-0.

PORKY OLIVER WINS MATCH FOR ARMY

FORT DIX, N. J.—(AP)—Corporal Ed (Porky) Oliver was an army hero today, less than two months after he was drafted.

He burned up the Lakewood, N. J., golf course yesterday, setting a new course record of 65 against the par 71, to carry himself and his teammate, Corporal Tommy Tailer to victory, one-up, over the Navy's Vic (Gunboat) Ghezzi and Charles (Destroyer) Whitehead.

Oh, girls, look here! The gentleman is the "glamor boy" at the University of Oklahoma. Co-eds selected Mitch (The Angel) Shadid, soph football player, for the honor during a "Now or Never" week. Oh, well, remember those goldfish-eating college boys?

Joe Harrod Wins All-Events With 1,899-Pin Total

Harold Leitz Captures Singles With Brilliant 725 Score.

SCORES of first place holders in the city bowling tournament withstood the assault of final heavers of the mineralite over the week-end, and today those scores were the marks of champions.

Joe Harrod captured the all-events crown with 1,899, with Jim France second at 1,885, and Jake Mayer third with 1,876. It made a clean sweep for the "J" initialed boys in the all-events money.

Harold Leitz's 725 was plenty good enough for the singles championship as Harold Teal moved into second place over the week-end with 691. The only other change among the leaders saw Patrolman Claude Watts crashing into a sixth place tie with 660.

Leo Hartzel held third with 686, Jim Dunn was fourth with 677, and Joe Harrod fifth with 665.

Eagles carried off top money in the team event with 3,022, followed by Dominion Electric with 2,994 and Mansfield Tire Service store with 2,963.

Jim France and Meredith "Frosty" Frost cashed in top money in doubles with 1,319, chalking up a 46-pin margin over Pete Grohol and Joe Thull in second with 1,273.

Highest single game team score was turned in by Mansfield Tire Curing Room No. 2 with 1057. Babe Meder and E. C. Phillipon had high doubles game of 480, and Jake Mayer high singles of 278.

Bissman Birdie Brands have a total of $132 coming from the Lima tourney, Orange St. Cafe $67, and one of the Mansfield Tire teams also was in the money.

VETERAN CLICKS

Veteran Bill Donnellan, the old baseball arbiter, got hot in the ABC bowling tournament at St. Paul over the week-end when he mowed down the maples for a 696 count in doubles.

Bill followed up with 606 in singles, and with a 546 count in the 5-man event checked in with 1814 in all-events. Harold Selby, rolling with Donnellan in doubles, hit nothing but tough luck. He turned in the 6-7-10 split on the first frame, then ran into four more big splits in a row. Together they had 1161.

Scores Again.

An academy award winner for his performance of Father Flanagan in the first story of "Boys' Town," Spencer Tracy scores again in the sequel, "Men of Boys' Town," at the Ohio. The story is woven around Father Flanagan's increasing financial problems as he expands to care for the increasing number of boys who appeal to him for aid. Mickey Rooney is again seen as "Whitey Marsh" who gets into a jam when he tries to help a boy criminal and is sent to a reform school.

Natural Background.

Hepburn's Story.

"Philadelphia Story," Katharine Hepburn's comedy with John Howard, Cary Grant and James Stewart continues at the Ritz. Tale of a "main line" family that gets interviewed by the press, the picture follows close upon the heels of the stage success. "Robin Hood of the Pecos," with Roy Rogers and George "Gabby" Hayes deals with night riders and carpetbaggers after the Civil war.

Gold-Diggin' Musical.

The hectic troubles three gold-diggers cause a middle-aged millionaire provide a riot of fun in "No, No, Nanette," starring Ann Neagle at the Park. Roland Young in the role of the millionaire heads a fine supporting cast including Richard Carlson, Helen Broderick and Zasu Pitts. Lavish production numbers in connection with the hit tunes embellish the show. Gene Autry in "Riding on a Rainbow," is the second film.

Penthouse Mystery.

Ellery Queen's "Penthouse Mystery," showing at the Majestic, traces a world-famed ventriloquist from China to New York where he disappears. Ralph Bellamy as the famous detective is called in to solve the case. Margaret Lindsay, Anna May Wong and Eduardo Ciannelli are in the cast. "His Girl Friday," with Cary Grant and Rosalind Russell is the second attraction.

REBUILD HOUSE FOR FAT BOYS

Nine-Year-Old Weighs 295; Brother, 3, Tips Scales At 85 Pounds.

(By Special News Service)

GLOUCESTER, Mass — Caring for two of the fattest boys in the country—the elder is 9 and weighs 295 pounds—requires the skill of an architect, the handiness of a carpenter and the genius of a mechanical engineer as well as that of a housewife.

That's the word from Mrs. Joe Randazza, mother of the fat boys of Cape Anne.

She didn't mind so much when her fisherman husband had to knock down a kitchen wall and make two rooms into one to help accommodate the expanding girth of Joe, jr., 9, and three-year-old Sammy who tips the beam at 85 pounds.

But she really got upset when, after buying Joe a special metal chair for his birthday, she heard a crash and looked up to see the chair caved in like an accordion and Joe rolling on the floor in great glee.

Here are a few other measurements of gentle Joey:

Neck, 20 inches; chest, 51; thigh, 35; forearm, 12; upper arm, 17 inches.

Unless he joins some kindergarten gymnasium, brother Sammy appears headed to cast as large a shadow as Joe when he's nine. Sammy's 85 pounds at three just about matches Joe's weight at that age, and, in fact, the periodic weight charts of the two ran closely parallel after their first year.

Doctors say they are puzzled. The rest of the children in the family tend to be slender. The father is 5 feet 9 inches tall and weighs about 180, the mother is 5 feet 7 inches tall and weighs about 155 Young Joe once was treated for what was tentatively diagnosed as a thyroid condition, and he dropped a pound or so, but tests were inconclusive because Joe snitched a bit when he was supposed to be on a diet

GEORGIA DENIES CONVICTS TOIL ON CHAIN GANG

Punishment By Whipping Also Abolished, Says Penal Board Statement.

ATLANTA, Ga.—(U.P.)—Georgia's criminal segregation program in two experimental works camps has been a failure thus far, according to Howard B Gordon, assistant executive secretary of the state board of penal correction.

The reason for the experiment's failure is the excessive demand placed on the convict camps to furnish labor for the state highways, it is contended.

Gordon explained that since 1938, prison officials in Georgia have been attempting to rid the state of the notorious name it has in the nation because of its chain gangs.

"We don't have chain gangs anymore," said Gordon, "at least not to the knowledge of the board."

He declared that punishment by whipping has been abolished also, though he admitted that rumors are constantly being heard of beatings being administered in some work camps.

"The board has investigated rumers from time to time, but we can find no proof that such punishment is being handed out in any instances," Gordon said.

"The object of the segregation camps is to keep separated the hardened criminal and the first offender," Gordon explained. He told of the two camps, one for white men in Harris county and one for Negroes in Miller county.

"These are state highway camps," Gordon said, "and they are called on to do much of the labor on the state roads."

He declared he would advocate the camps be set up from the county prison farms—which number 86 in Georgia — rather than from the state highway system, which have only 13 such prisons.

Gordon pointed out that demand for convict labor on highways has caused many a hardened criminal being sent to these experimental camps where only "first offenders" are supposed to be imprisoned. This has undermined the entire project as planned by the Penal Board, he believes.

Prisoners are being treated in a humane manner, according to Gordon, and every opportunity is afforded them to shorten their time by good behavior He said Georgia in the last three years has attempted to keep pace with the rest of the nation by improving living and working conditions for its convicts.

Shackles, both at the state penitentiary and in the work camps, have been abolished, Gordon said. He admitted that in certain instances such disciplinary methods as chains and shackles might be necessary.

The present prison system of Georgia calls for a state penitentiary for men and one for women, 13 state highway camps and 86 county camps. These prisons are all under the control of the state board of penal correction

Gordon believes that the board will take further steps in attempting to improve convict conditions by making continued efforts to install the "segregation" system.

ADRIAN, Mich.—(U.P.)—Franklin Boies of Hudson claims distinction because his Lenawee county order and serial numbers are identical: 5302. Draft officials believe such coincidence is rare throughout the nation although a similar case was reported in another Michigan county.

FLOWER PICKERS FINED.

COLUMBUS, N. C. —(U.P.)— Violations of an old state law against picking wild flowers brought fines averaging $8 to more than 30 persons in a series of wholesale arrests here recently. Judge Giles Pearson said most of the offenders were from other states.

PREFER NON-FICTION

ST. LOUIS —(U.P.)— Who reads what kind of books? Well, a survey made by the Public Library here disclosed that the first-ranking devotees of non-fiction in St. Louis are clerks, teachers, salesmen and stenographers, in that order. The study did not include students and unemployed.

BOY SAYS 'OKAY'

TRINADAD, Colo. — (U.P.) — When a little 2-year-old boy went to church for the first time he amused himself with a bit of paper and by sliding off the pew. "Now let us bow our heads in prayer," the minister concluded "Okay," pertly answered the heretofore quiet youngster.

More Royal Refugees In London

As their countries have been occupied by the German armies, members of various royal families have taken refuge in London to direct the affairs of their governments-in-exile. Latest additions to the royal refugees in England are Dowager Queen Marie of Yugoslavia, mother of King Peter, and Princes Andre and Tomislav. They are pictured in the country home near London where the queen is staying.

STOCK MARKET CALM DESPITE NEWS OF WAR

Buyers Discount Withdrawal of Allies From Greece; Bonds Steady.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market maintained its composure today in the face of news generally considered bad in the financial sector.

Early support was accorded U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Montgomery Ward, Consolidated Edison, Anaconda and General Electric.

Bonds were relatively steady and commodities mixed.

Withdrawal of the Allied forces from Greece, brokers said, apparently had been discounted marketwise and a little buying came in on the idea that a "sold-out" condition existed.

Studied in boardrooms was the survey of the magazine "Steel" which said that "constantly a greater proportion of orders for steel is for defense work" and officials in this industry were predicting that before long "filling of civilian needs will be shoved far into the background."

Some encouragement was derived from estimates of merchandising analysts that April dollar volume sales of department and retail stores would eclipse any like period since 1930.

20,000 ATTEND AIR CORPS MEET

Pursuit Pilots Thrill Spectators At Port Columbus, Sunday.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—A crowd of 20,000, largest in the 11-year history of the Municipal airport, gathered at Port Columbus yesterday for the first of several air shows scheduled this summer by the army air corps in the fifth corps area.

Pursuit pilots thrilled spectators with a game of follow-the-leader at 300 miles per hour, power diving to the field and then pulling the noses upward when only 12 feet from the ground.

The exhibition was in the interest of recruiting for the air corps.

ILLNESS FATAL

Mrs. Ethel McIntire, 65, Dies at Home; Rites Wednesday.

Mrs. Ethel McIntire, 65, wife of L. R. McIntire, died yesterday at her home, 275 South Diamond street, following a short illness.

Mrs. McIntire, who was born in Nevada O., Aug. 11, 1875, had spent the greater part of her life in Mansfield.

A member of the Main Street Evangelical church, Mrs. McIntire was a past matron of Ruth Chapter No. 17, Order of Eastern Star. She was also one of the organizers of Naomi White Shrine.

Survivors are her husband, two sons, Roy McIntire, of Norfolk, Va., and Jack, of Mansfield; four daughters, Mrs. Hazel Hoffman, of Boston, Mass.; Mrs. Dio Shaw, of Cleveland Heights; Mrs. A. A. Hecht of Tucson, Ariz., and Mrs. William Treisch, of Mansfield. Also surviving are her father, Charles F. Worth, one brother, C. E. Worth, and one half-sister, Zellah Worth, of Indianapolis, Ind., and seven grandchildren.

The body was taken to the Wappner funeral home where services will be held Wednesday at 4 p. m. in charge of Rev. C. L. Kern. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

THREE DOWN

Two Others Rescued As Boat Capsizes On River.

ZANESVILLE —(AP)— The drowning of three persons brought a tragic end to a Sunday motor boat outing on the Muskingum river south of here.

The dead are Harry Leas, 40; his 10-year-old daughter, Joe May, and Lois Newburn, 11, of Annapolis. O. Leas' sons, Dale, 14, and Glenn, 15, were rescued by motorists after the outboard-powered craft capsized.

ENDS OWN LIFE

YOUNGSTOWN—(INS)— Funeral services were planned today for Roy G. Weber, 50, World war veteran, who committed suicide by shooting himself through the head with a pistol. Coroner Joseph Colla said Weber was despondent over ill health.

day at the junction of routes 13 and 178 north of Mansfield. Hurt in the mishap, state highway patrolmen said, were Mrs. Esther Krofta, 21, of Crestline, and Theodore R. Howell, 30, of 519 Lydia street.

Howell, who was driving the car, received head and face injuries and lost several teeth, General hospital attaches said. Mrs. Krofta had cuts on her face and arms. Both were in General hospital today. Patrolmen said the car hit a bridge.

Mrs. James Pirrgo, 23, of 17 Shelby avenue, was treated at General hospital for minor injuries she received in an accident at 11:30 p. m. Saturday on route 30-S, seven miles west of Mansfield. She was riding with Miss Helen Alice Pirrgo, 22, of 15 Shelby avenue, highway patrolmen said. Miss Pirrgo was not injured. Officers said their car figured in a crash, with another driven by Junior Colvin Cronenwett, 19, of Galion.

Traffic fatalities over the state included: Boston Towne, a circus side show operator, who was killed outright in the collision of a circus truck and a commercial transport north of Delaware. The circus was enroute from Lancaster to Marion. Towne lived in Oakland, Calif.

State Highway Patrolman Rufus Davis saw Maurice Biggs, 54, killed by an automobile near Portsmouth. Davis said he was following the automobile in order to observe the actions of the driver, identified by the patrolman as Delbert Higgins. Higgins was arrested on charges of drunken driving and leaving the scene of an accident.

Other fatalities were:

COLUMBUS—E. S. Landon, 61, and Anthony Del Col, 52, in Columbus collision.

ALLIANCE—Owen Witten, 67, struck by automobile, city's first traffic death of 1941.

LOGAN—Mrs. Mary A. Ralph, 87, of injuries suffered in crash April 17.

ZANESVILLE—Paul Brosie, 30, of injuries suffered when his motorcycle struck house.

CHESAPEAKE — Mrs. G. E. Pinkerman of Huntington, W. Va., killed when automobile crashed into a tree.

UNDAUNTED BY PLANE FAILURE

Marion Experimenter Plans to Repair Craft After Test.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Undaunted by the crash of his model, radio-controlled bomber plane in a test before army officers, Verlin Haines of Marion worked today to repair his craft and try again.

Haines and his radio assistant, James Gornflo of Marion, sent the gasoline-powered plane aloft at Port Columbus Sunday and guided it by radio through two minutes of maneuvers before the plane's controls stuck and caused the crash. The damage can be repaired, Haines said.

German overnight raiders pounded fiercely at the English south coast city of Portsmouth, roaring in during Prime Minister Churchill's broadcast to the empire.

An official British statement acknowledged that "casualties were rather heavy."

In North Africa, British middle east headquarters reported that Axis columns striking into Egypt toward the Suez canal scored "little or no progress" yesterday after penetrating five or six miles inside the Egyptian frontier near Salum on Saturday evening.

"Light elements of a well-known British armored division are once again in contact with the enemy" in the Salum area, it was stated.

PLAN MEETING

Union, Company Representatives Will Confer At Canton.

CANTON—(INS)—A meeting between union and company representatives of the struck Belden brick plant has been scheduled for Wednesday, it was announced today.

Approximately 750 members of the United Brick & Clay Workers union, CIO, went out on strike when the company, which operates nine plants, five of which are in Tuscarawas county, refused to meet a 10 per cent wage increase.

PLAN MASS MEETING

DAYTON — (AP) — Municipal workers will hear what city commissioners have to say at a Wednesday mass meeting instead of striking today as originally planned, said George Snyder of the AFL municipal employes union. The union demands 20 per cent wage increases for 700 workers.

MAKE PLANS TO EXPAND ARSENAL

Officials Look to Possibility War May Go On Two Years.

WASHINGTON— (AP) —Against the possibility that war may still be raging two years hence, defense officials are shaping plans for expanding output of the "arsenal of democracy" beyond the capacity of any possible foe.

Persons in close touch with the planners reported today that vast new bomber, ammunition and other arms plants were in the preliminary design stage and predicted requests to congress for billions to build and operate them.

convoy responsibilities. Churchill hinted that American naval patrol operations would extend eastward to a point near the combat zone defined by Germany around the British Isles.

The patrol device is an expedient to put munitions shipping under the protective eyes but not necessarily in the protective custody of American warships. Mr. Roosevelt is confident that it remains safely within the "short of war" limits the administration has observed in aiding the British.

Churchill said activity of the American naval and air patrols would enable the British to concentrate their forces closer home and "take a far heavier toll of U-boats." The American patrol vessels simply would report the whereabouts of German raiders.

If the plan works as well as Mr. Roosevelt and Churchill evidently expect, the convoy issue rapidly will diminish in domestic and international political importance and anti-interventionists will have to adjust sights for a new target.

A senate foreign relations committee test of convoy sentiment is scheduled for Wednesday when the anti-convoy resolution of Sen. Charles W. Tobey, R., N. H., comes up for consideration.

The house is expected to vote this week on the president's request for authority to take over and operate idle foreign ships tied up in United States ports.

Representatives of the 21 American republics have adopted a resolution recognizing the right of each to take over idle foreign ships in their harbors—a substantial endorsement of the seizure policy.

Authorities Charge Alabaman With Slaying Daughter.

MOBILE, Ala.—(INS)—Esker W. Gibson, 32-year-old farmer, today faced further questioning by officers after he had been charged with murdering his 7-month-old daughter, Marie Elease—one of six members of his family whose bodies were found in their fire-swept home near Mobile last week.

Authorities said no charges have been filed against him in connection with the deatus of his wife and their other four children.

According to police, preliminary investigation indicated that the mother and the children may have been dead before the flames swept through the two-story house. The charge against Gibson was filed after he allegedly made conflicting statements concerning his whereabouts the night of the fire.

immediately; continuation of negotiations, and retroactive application of any wage gains.

Southern Appalachian operators, employing 150,000 of the industry's 400,000 miners, again rejected the plan. The United Mine Workers and northern operators offered again to accept, provided the southerners agreed.

The controversy is over a new contract to replace the one which expired March 31. Northern operators and the UMW have agreed on terms, including a $1 increase in the basic wage rate to $7 per day. Southern operators have balked at union demands that the wage differential between north and south be eliminated.

Meanwhile, the nation's coal supply dwindles. A survey by defense officials disclosed that there is only enough coal to last the nation as a whole until May 8. There already is a shortage in steel and some other industries and government officials have been studying plans for rationing the remaining supply among essential industries.

Collapse of the mediation board's negotiations yesterday was preceded by a "final" offer by the southern operators to raise the base pay scale in the south $1 to $6 60, but Lewis rejected it.

JUST A MINUTE—

Any day of the week is a good day for Want-Ad advertising in The Mansfield News-Journal, but for some types of advertisers one day is better than others.

THAT ONE DAY IS SUNDAY!

THERE'S A REASON

The family is together on Sunday. There is more time for reading. The man and woman in the home have an opportunity to discuss their wants and needs. If they see an advertisement that interests them, they can act —and act together.

People have more time to look at real estate on Sunday . . . more time to look for rooms and apartments on Sunday . . . more time to check the used car ads and discuss the make, model and price that best meets their individual requirements.

As a matter of fact, practically every classification of Want-Ad advertising profits by the fact that on Sunday there is more time for reading, and a better opportunity to discuss and investigate the merits of the advertisers' offerings.

Plan NOW to have your Want-Ad in this Sunday's News-Journal. The cost is small and the Want Ad Department will remain open until 8:00 P. M. Saturday for your convenience.

CHURCH GROUP VISITS BEREA

SHELBY — A delegation of young people from Methodist churches in the Mansfield district attended the "open house" held Sunday at the Methodist Children's home in Berea.

Heading the delegation from Richland county were Rev. Avery Butler of Butler, who is district director; and Wade Piltenger of Mansfield, Richland county league council president.

Plans were announced for a meeting of the county council to be held at 8 p. m. Tuesday at First Methodist church in Mansfield at which time arrangements will be completed to hold a county rally at Butler later this month.

not been called into active service, although he held a commission in the air corps reserve.

Replying, Mr. Roosevelt said that during the Civil war numerous foreigners, liberty-loving people, fought on both sides, and that at the same time both sides let certain people go; that is, did not call them into service.

He said the people who were thus ignored were the Vallandighams. He explained that the Callandighams were people who, from 1863 on, urged immediate peace, arguing that the North could not win the war between the states.

(Clement L. Vallandigham was a member of the house from Ohio. In 1863 he was arrested for alleged "treasonable utterances" and banished to the Confederate states. He was known as a leader of the "Copperheads.")

Lindbergh has been a colonel in the air corps reserve since 1927, the year of his New York-Paris flight.

His last appointment was in 1937 after the passage of the recent air corps act. Appointments are renewed every five years.

He has been on active duty with the air corps three times, first in 1925 while a captain. He was on duty for a few weeks in 1927 and again in the spring of 1939 when he made a nation-wide inspection tour of air corps facilities.

Shelby Speech Students Compete In National Meet

SHELBY—Shelby high school's representatives in the national tournament of National Forensic league being held at Lexington, Ky., have arrived there and today are taking part in the opening rounds of the affair.

Speech Supervisor Leonard Linsenmayer and five students, Betty Hart, Sally Van Horn, John Purdy, Velma Van Wagner and JoAnn Fish, all of Shelby, arrived at Lexington over the week-end. They left Shelby Saturday morning.

Preliminary results of the tournament will not be compiled until Tuesday night. The finals of the tournament will be held Thursday.

Miss Hart is representing Ohio and Michigan NFL district in the "mock" student congress being held in conjunction with the tournament, while the other four students from here are competing in the individual events of the affair.

INFANT BURIED

GALION—Funeral services were held Sunday at the Volk funeral home for the infant daughter of Ralph and Elizabeth Fern Ernst. Rev. Father William Pfeifer of St. Joseph's Catholic church officiated, and burial was made in Mt. Calvary cemetery here. The baby was born Saturday morning in City hospital, and died in the afternoon.

FACE ATLANTIC AFTER DEFEAT

British Turn Attention From Balkan Losses to Battle Against Blockade.

"When I said ten weeks ago 'give us the tools and we will finish the job' I meant give them to us, put them within our reach," Churchill asserted, "and that is what it now seems Americans are going to do and that is why I feel a very strong conviction that though the battle of the Atlantic will be long and hard and its issue by no means yet determined it has entered upon a more grim but at the same time a far more favorable phase."

Although expressing confidence in ultimate victory, the prime minister, in a 30-minute war review, told his listeners "we must now expect the war in the Mediterranean, on the sea, in the desert and above all in the air to become very fierce, varied and widespread.

But, Churchill continued, "no prudent and far-seeing man can doubt that eventual and total defeat of Hitler and Mussolini is certain in view of the respective and clear resolve of the British and American democracies.

Australia Announces War Effort Extension

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Australia today notified the United States government that it intends to extend rather than limit its war effort as a result of the British Empire reverses suffered in the Balkans.

Formal assurances to this effect were conveyed to Secretary of State Cordell Hull by Richard G. Casey.

Casey told reporters he had brought assurances that there was absolutely no truth in rumors that Australia is contemplating restricting its war effort or that any defection whatever existed between Australia and Great Britain over the British reverses in the Balkans.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, APRIL 28, 1941.

A dog may be man's best friend—but not the neighbor's dog in your flower bed.

It's odd how so many different predicters, predicting so many different things, can all sound so authentic.

Item says federal help is in sight for completion of Confederate memorial on Stone mountain in Georgia — which requires considerably more chiseling.

Hemispheric Understanding Grows

THE UNITED STATES and its twenty neighbor republics have a number of things in common. For example, all of them honor Christopher Columbus for discovering the new world, of which they are a part. All of them were colonized from abroad and eventually all of them threw off foreign domination and won independence. Most of them have suffered from civil wars, though not all for the same causes.

Although the languages of these sister republics seem to divide them into Latin and Anglo-Saxon nations, all of them have received settlers from many lands and have mixed populations.

With such similar starts on the road to nationhood, they should not have too much trouble understanding each other now that they are trying to do so. Faith in mutual good will is important. Solution of the economic problems that confront them will come more surely and happily with mutual respect and due regard for the law of the others.

The good relations now existing between the United States and Mexico may be largely attributed to this government's faithful adherence to Pan-American pledges of non-interference and recognition of national law in such matters. At the time, some citizens north of the Rio Grande thought it too soft a policy—but it seems now to have been wiser and more successful than a sterner one.

Trial Given Trash Receptacles

THE IDEA of placing trash receptacles on downtown streets, as now proposed by Mayor Locke, is not a new one in Mansfield, having been tried a number of years ago with such little success that it was soon abandoned.

While the intent is admirable, it is found that tidiness, like safety, is a matter of education, and the sort of slovenly people who now clutter up streets with discarded wrappings, waste paper and other trash, are seldom conscious of the proximity of a receptacle, however obvious it may be.

Some cities gain favorable mention for the pride of their citizens in keeping streets and sidewalks free from litter and from the broken bottles common to night club surroundings. Mansfield is not one of these and an awakening of public consciousness along this line is a more immediate need than revival of the trash receptable idea.

It would be well, however, to place a few such receptacles in public parks, for convenient disposal of the residue of picnic lunches and other litter, so that all visitors can cooperate in keeping the parks clean and attractive.

Greater Emphasis On Health

DEFECTIVE TEETH and eyesight have caused many young men of draft age to be put on the deferred list. The public has been concerned about this. Some people fear it is a sign of bad health generally. Others think the defects should be corrected promptly, if possible, and the men thus brought up to standard should be sent to training camps.

Dr. Roger I. Lee, president-elect of the American College of Physicians, interviewed recently on this point, said certain physical standards for the recruits were "too rigid" and the situation did not indicate poor health among the country's young men.

"Unless those defects make a man actually sick and cause him to be totally inefficient," Dr. Lee believes, "they should not mean deferment. In this age of specialism in soldiery, when a man is not required to do every job, there should be places of value for those who have such minor defects."

George Washington's dental troubles did not interfere with his soldiering. They didn't even affect his pitching arm, if one accepts the story of the coin tossed across the Potomac river.

Anyhow, a glance at the health statistics of the nation shows improvement and not a decline, so there's no reason for alarm on that score. Draft deferments should simply inspire more and earlier attention to all physical defects.

All Aboard for Somewhere Else

PASSENGER AGENTS for railroads, buses and air lines agree that these are cheering days for transportation. Use of their facilities is now at a higher point than at any time since 1932, the start of the big depression.

Some of the travel is a by-product of the training camps, consisting of recruits going to camp or going home on leave, and relatives going to camp to visit soldiers. Some of it is directly connected with defense industries. Much of it, however, is simply the result of increasing business activity —more people have money to spend for this purpose than they have had for some time.

Bus and air lines have already begun increasing schedules and expect to do more of this during the summer. A boom in travel is probably as wholesome as any kind of boom could be. Getting around, seeing new places, visiting old and new friends, ought to get a lot of minds out of ruts, cheer disheartened individuals and develop the traveler's understanding of America.

Exhibition of Child Art

ONE of the largest exhibits of children's art ever displayed is now on view in New York City. There are 102 pictures, 26 pieces of sculpture and several murals. The young artists were members of the WPA art classes in neighborhood centers in the metropolis. The exhibits were selected from thousands of works of art so produced.

An adult might learn something about children as well as art by studying those exhibitions. Many are surprisingly good and some show an amusingly practical imagination.

An item from Miami tells about landing a record-breaking shark—but says nothing about the interest rate on small loans.

Even if Hitler has no designs on Russia his earlier writings indicate that he has plenty of blueprints.

China may also prefer isolation.

Hopkins Will Get Things Done

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—There are two sides to this business of putting Harry Hopkins in charge of the Office of Emergency Management, one of the most important in the war effort. There is such criticism, of course, as has been made on the floor of the house of representatives by John Taber, of New York. Taber thinks the Hopkins appointment is the worst thing President Roosevelt has done in the whole national defense setup.

But there is another angle, and one which will appeal tremendously to any of the people who will now work under Hopkins. At least they will know, always, that their chief is just about supreme —that nobody is going to get in between their chief and the president. Therefore, if they can satisfy their own chief, they are all right.

EVERYONE who has ever worked in any big organization, whether it be government or a corporation, knows the tremendous value of this, and knows that it makes for good feeling and for efficiency. No matter what blunders Hopkins may make, he will not be destroyed by some rival running to the president with the news about it.

The point may well be raised that perhaps, if he blunders enough, he ought to be destroyed. That is the other side of the picture, and it fits in with the Taber criticism. But at least it has the virtue of pretty nearly eliminating the sort of factionalism which is so rampant in many government branches and in many corporations, where certain individuals inside, hoping to advance their own status by a change, play with certain figures outside their immediate group with the hope of ultimately throwing their chief out the window.

That sort of thing is rife in government offices. For some reason connected with the frailties of human nature, being on the government pay roll seems to breed it. But it is also true in many private enterprises, particularly those not run by a "czar." "Office politics" is just as blighting in private employment as in the government. It seems to thrive best in enterprises which are financed by "angels," and which are therefore not always judged by red and black ink, which last may be the reason the type of maneuvering in question is so prevalent in government agencies. It is much more difficult, of course, to judge efficiency where the objective is not profit.

NO ONE has any doubt of the hold Harry Hopkins has on the president. He has taken the place so long occupied in F. D. R.'s heart by Louis Howe. Actually he is much bigger, mentally, and in his breadth of vision than Howe. Also he has more friends, outside the Roosevelt circle. It is questionable whether he has anything like the political shrewdness of his predecessor.

But it is fairly certain, now, that no one is going to supplant Hopkins in the president's favor. Like Howe, he does not want anything for himself, not even caring what his salary is, or indeed whether he is on the pay roll at all.

So, whether he be able in his new O. E. M. job or not, he is there for the duration, or at least until he himself decides that he could be more useful to F. D. R. in some other niche. No one but Harry Hopkins himself is going to pry him out.

Health and Diet

Where a Strike Would Be Fatal

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

YOU have, if you are a person of about average size and weight, about half a bucket of blood in your body—a little over five quarts. About two-fifths of this are the red blood cells. They float, pretty widely separated, in the serum, but if packed down they would constitute about two-fifths of the entire volume. The rest of the blood is the plasma, or serum, which is a clear, yellowish fluid.

Today I want to call attention to the activities of all the chemicals that are contained in the blood plasma. This carries all the food to the tissues, all the minerals and vitamins. Our knowledge of blood chemistry has become very accurate in the last quarter-century.

Contents of Blood.

A chemist estimates that in this half-bucket of blood there is dissolved a teaspoonful of sugar and a tablespoonful of ordinary table salt, and about a tablespoonful of sodium bicarbonate or ordinary baking soda. There are about six 5-grain capsules of nitrogenous products in the blood, and about 1-100 of grain of iodine. There is from a teaspoonful to a tablespoonful of fat.

These substances are all in a state of flux and it is, indeed, a very busy chemical factory. These substances are, of course, all derived from the food. After digestion they are carried to the liver — most of them — and there changed into forms which the cells can utilize. Some part of them is stored in the liver and the rest released in the blood stream.

The teaspoonful of sugar which is contained in your half bucket of blood is there for quick energy. It is like gasoline in the carburetor. When a muscle contracts, no matter how little, a certain amount of this energy chemical is used up, unites with oxygen, literally burns, and releases energy by a minute and inaudible explosion.

If you do a good stint of hard, muscular work, the teaspoonful of sugar in your blood is quickly used up and the body calls upon the reserves of sugar which are stored in the liver—as it would the gasoline in the tank.

The person with diabetes, instead of having one teaspoonful has about two teaspoonfuls of sugar in his blood and he can't get rid of it in the muscles because the sparker is not working.

A similar outline could be made for the way all the other chemical constituents of the blood are used but some of the processes are quite technical and difficult to explain.

The body is, however, a very busy factory, indeed, and, of course, it creates heat, which is the temperature of your body. There are no strikes, and no walkouts, and no picketing, and no collective bargaining among the workers of the body, for if any of them stop for any length of time, there wouldn't be any factory and nobody would get paid anything.

Maybe there is a lesson in this.

ISAAC K. FUNK, of Funk & Wagnalls Co., was born at Clifton, Greene county, Ohio, 100 years ago and educated for the Lutheran ministry.

Funk's beginning in the publishing business was small. He supplied books, pictures, and sundry necessities to ministers. To meet one of these he founded the Metropolitan Pulpit, and aid in sermonic themes. Other publicantions followed until 1877 when he was joined by Adam Willis Wagnalls, another Ohioan, and the two formed I. K. Funk & Co., later known as Funk & Wagnalls company.

In 1890 Funk launched the most successful of all his periodicals, the Literary Digest, of which he was the first editor. For more than 40 years it enjoyed a position unique in journalism.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Lack of U. S. Equipment Blamed For Victory of Nazis In Greece

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—It did not get by the London censors, but some very pointed questions were asked of Winston Churchill in an executive session of the house of commons after the collapse of the British-Greek front.

One question was why the British army had not sent tanks and airplanes to support its troops in Greece.

To this the prime minister replied that the British simply did not have enough tanks and planes to go around. They were needed on too many fronts.

Then came the question as to what was happening to the tanks and airplanes received from America under the lend-lease bill. Churchill had to reply that tanks were not yet forthcoming at all and that airplanes had come in comparative driblets (only 1,000 have been received from both the U. S. A. and Canada since the war started two years ago).

He tried to explain that it took time for America to get her factories geared for tank and airplane production, also to ship supplies across the Atlantic. But U. S. officials who reported the debate back to Washington got the impression that there was a certain amount of criticism, or at least misunderstanding, because the United States had not come through faster.

U. S. A. Failed Greece.

MEANWHILE in Athens, U. S. Minister Lincoln MacVeagh reported that there were heart-breaking reminders from certain Greek officials of the help which the United States had promised. Even as early as last October the U. S. government made public statements promising aid to Greece, MacVeagh was told, yet no military aid had ever come.

Note—When the Greek air minister ordered 30 Bellanca combination training-bombing planes from the United States some time before the war, Joseph Green, of the state department munitions control board, stopped them on the ground that they were going to Spanish Loyalists. After Greece was attacked, she tried once again to get these Bellancas, but they are now rusting in Mexico.

Tennessee Hospitality.

THE Vultee Aircraft corporation in Nashville might not like it if all the guests invited to the opening of their new plant actually appear for that ceremony.

With a generous flourish, Vultee sent invitations to scores of newspapermen in Washington, to come to their Tennessee party May 3, when the plant will be formally dedicated. The invitation held out as attractions an inspection of the plant, a cocktail party, a buffet supper; and included Clarke Kawakami of the Domei (Japanese) news agency; Tom Davis, of the Transocean (German) news agency, and Kurt Sell of DNB, German official news agency.

The invitation, also signed by the governor of Tennessee, carried the notation, "Dress Optional." Wise-cracked German Kurt Sell: "They should have added, 'Bring your own cameras!"

* * *

Tough Draft Boards.

THE PROBLEM of industrial manpower has become so acute that defense chiefs have complained to Selective Service officials that some local boards are "too tough" about granting deferment to skilled workmen.

Ohio draft boards, for example, are ordering the induction of craftsmen badly needed for the crucial machine tool program. Similar complaints have been made against Michigan draft authorities for taking specially skilled men needed by the Packard plant, now producing Rolls-Royce airplane engines for the British.

From Virginia have come reports that the draft is hampering the vast naval and shipbuilding program at Newport News.

The problem of labor supply is also hitting agriculture. Agricultural officials fear that so much labor is being drained off farms that some of them want to bar any more defense plants in midwestern dairy and pork sections.

Note — Senator "Cotton Ed" Smith of South Carolina did not vote for the Selective Service act, as earlier reported in this column. He voted against it.

* * *

Navy Censorship.

MORE light on the navy's censorship rumpus regarding the crippled British battleship Malaya has been leaking out gradually.

Latest disclosure is that the British had a press release all prepared, telling the American public of the arrival of the battleship in New York. But when they showed their story to U. S. navy officials, the latter squelched it. (The navy later told newspapermen that in opposing publication of this news they were only acting on behalf of the British.)

The British press release was quite frank and a little naive. It told what a fine ship the Malaya was, and that this was the first instance of a British warship being repaired in an American navy yard under the lend-lease bill.

Note — New naval officer in charge of press relations will be Admiral Arthur J. Hepburn, a wise choice. Hepburn is one of the broad-minded officers of the navy, tolerant, kindly, a veteran of much sea duty mingled with press relations at various arms conferences.

To assist him ex-publisher, now Secretary of the Navy Knox has chosen the managering editor of his paper, Hal O'Flaherty of the Chicago Daily News. Charming and meteoric, O'Flaherty may or may not be a wise choice. Newsmen have their fingers crossed.

Under the Dome.

THE attitude of the U. S. A. toward Germany, as summed up by Congressman Bob Doughton of North Carolina, is this: "Germany hasn't done enough against us to make the American people want to go to war against her, and England hasn't done enough for us." . . . Many workers in the General Electric plants at Schenectady, N. Y., and Lynn, Mass., went without their vacations last year to finish the turbine and gears for the North Carolina, largest U. S. battleship. Other workers take note . . . Last act of Texas' Senator Sheppard before he died was to send out a letter soliciting donations to the American Bible society. "This is a time when more people need to read the Bible," the Senator said . . . War may be engrossing the world, but the Federal Trade commission, is very, very busy deciding whether beauty cream manufacturers, et al, are violating the Robinson-Patman act when they supply demonstrators to big department stores. One cosmetic firm already has spent $125,000 presenting evidence on this point . . . Read Albert Wagg's story in the current New Republic for the shocking lowdown on how the state department is handling the refugee problem.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Answering the Army mail orders:

T. F., Fort Benning, Ga.—The reason there are no Company J's in the army is that originally the letter "J" looked so much like the letter "I" that army officials were afraid orders to the company might become confused. Incidentally, although there is alphabetical lettering of streets in Washington, there is no "J" street.

Mrs. K. M. D., Phoenix, Ariz.—It would be fun to write a story about this being the first army with which there are no Indian scouts, but General Headquarters tells me we DO have Indian scouts in the present set-up. They are with the 25th Infantry at Fort Huachuca, Ariz. Maybe it's beside the point, but the army considers Indians the most competent and efficient communications men in the whole draft army.

P. R., Camp Ord, Calif.—I can only tell you what an old army man told me: "Whenever I was reviewing troops, I looked at the leather. If a man's shoes, belt, putts (if leather) and cap visor (if leather, too) were shined, I figured he knew what soldiering was all about." He did add, however, that the same applied to all polishable metal, but he said he never saw a man with metal equipment up to glossy who didn't have his leather looking the same way. These men who put elbow grease in their polishing, he claimed, invariably gave the best performance under fire.

K. W., Albany, N. Y.—The estimated strength of the army in mid-April was 1,186,000 men. About 68,500 were commissioned officers. The regular army accounts for about a half-million officers and enlisted men, national guard about 290,000, draftees about 380,000.

Mrs. T. P., Austin, Tex.—I'll be glad to pass along your observation: Company E, of the 141st Infantry regiment at Camp Bowie, Texas, is composed entirely of men of Mexican descent. They are one and all crack marksmen and the history of their company goes all the way back to the Battle of San Jacinto. They were with Hood in the Civil war and went through almost all the bitterest battles on the Western Front. The proudest boast of these Spanish-Americans is that they never have had and never will have a man drop out on the march. One way they practice to uphold this tradition is to walk and run about during the assigned rest periods on forced marches. They have a record of having marched 22 miles in a little over seven hours.

R. L., Enid, Okla.—Pvt. James Stewart, late of Hollywood, still is at Moffett Field, Calif., but you had better hurry if you want to write him. Wright Field, at Dayton, O., has asked that he be transferred there to assist in—not flying, which he's interested in—but in the production of publicity movies. It's nothing authentic, but I have a hunch that Pvt. Stewart won't be a Pvt. so very long. Jimmy definitely is officer material.

B. K. D., Tacoma, Wash.—Your paragraph on Fort Flagler (Wash.) is one of the next Thanksgiving stories of the year for my money. I hope you'll forgive my copying it. It is that Colonel Cunningham postponed firing practice with the big guns four days in order that turkey farmers in the neighborhood might get their spring settings set. The boom-boom of the coast defense guns on Puget Sound has a way, it seems, of blowing hen turks off the nest . . . and spoiling the eggs in early periods of setting.

G. T. D., Glendale, Calif.—The "Flying Fortresses," 20-ton bombers, are the largest produced in quantity by this country to date. There already is in the air a bigger plane than this. It's the "Super-Flying Fortress," but so far it is only in the latest stage of development. After that comes the Douglas B-19, the 82-ton bomber, capable of flying from here to London and back with an 18-ton bomb load and with still enough gas to land on that field right by Glendale. Engineers are already far advanced on a much larger bomber than this -- the 100-ton plane—but it's only in the blueprint stage.

Daily Bible Thought

But seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you.—Matt. 6:33.

A Farmer's Diary

Pair of Pheasants

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

AS I DROVE along the edge of my neighbor's field, a ring-necked pheasant cock stood just at the edge of the ditch and looked at me. His long tail trailed on the grass. His head was high, but not in alarm. The white ring about his neck made beautiful contrast with the dark rose iridescence of his breast. He was a vivid living accent to the greening meadow and it gave me a start and a thrill of real delight to observe closely his brilliant, vari-colored plumage.

I stopped my car, but he did not fly as I expected. Instead, he peered at me without concern, then walked slowly up a little hollow of the field where last year's grass had covered well the soil. His brilliant dress was no protection for him there. For fifteen minutes he walked about this little cove and fed upon some fallen seeds, still unalarmed.

Plainly he was killing time—like a small boy loitering, afraid to tell his errand. I heard a shuffling in the grass and then the movement of a heavy bunch. Something turned along the dusky roadside that looked as if the grass itself was stirring. I gazed sharply at the spot and dimly made out the outline of the pheasant hen. Her drab mottled form moved parallel to her proud and gallant mate, but kept distance from him. When he retraced his steps and looked curiously about, she stopped too and slyly slipped between the strands of grass in the same direction.

They seemed to understand each other perfectly, though neither made a sound. The male was bold and full of initiative, but his modest little spouse knew how to follow and be content. How to veil herself from the vulgar passing eye; how to walk just so far away and still remain the center of attraction; how to be so domestic and hold his affection undividedly; how to build a modest home from the frail yielding timber of the meadow, while he observed and gave approval by his very presence.

I know there is a grassy home not more than 30 feet from where I sat. Perhaps there are no eggs laid in it yet, but in another week or two if I should search and pull the coarse stems carefully apart—if I should intrude and frighten the wild mother—I would find the olive brown eggs laid.

But I shall not disturb them. It will be more delightful to watch these wild folk move about at will—and watch first hand the lovely domestic drama of the pheasant family.

CHAPTER 14

Raye jumped up, her head throbbing with a thousand questions. Hal's manner, his voice even, seemed to indicate that something special was in the wind. Had Ruthie at last come to her senses, agreed to that divorce?

Raye and Hal paused at the bar and Hal ordered a cocktail. Raye decided on a lemonade and stood beside Hal, her heart hammering with expectation as the cool liquid went down her tight throat. If Hal would only hurry up and say what she longed to hear.

"Ruthie had a headache — couldn't come tonight. So the evening is yours, darling."

Raye smiled grimly. This seemed too much like being second fiddle. It nettled her.

"I see," she said edgily. "I thought you looked slightly sunk."

He laid a hand over one of hers which tensely clutched the bar's edge.

He said low, "Behave yourself, beautiful one. You know I love you."

She flung him a doubtful look from under her long dark lashes.

"So I've heard. Aunt Susan has heard about it too. The whole thing is getting to be a mess, Hal."

She set down her glass.

"Aunt Susan?" he said slowly. "That is bad!"

He scowled into his cocktail, then took a deep drink. He set his glass beside hers, remarking resignedly, "Well, that's that, I suppose."

He added testily, "Why waste this dance? Haven't you had enough of that sickish stuff?"

"No. I'd like to finish it."

With maddening deliberation, she began to sip her drink again, her wide blue eyes mocking over the rim of her glass.

Hal took a thin gold case from the pocket of his white evening jacket, got out a cigaret and lighted it. He inhaled deeply and then a cloud of smoke blurred his handsome face. He tood drumming the fingers of one hand nervously on the bar.

Having tormented him long enough by lingering over her lemonade, Raye smiled her sweetest and said, "I'm ready now."

The music from the floor above covered her sigh.

Under the romantic, eerie, colored lights, she was adorable tonight. She was wearing a tightly fitted rose chiffon gown which flared below her narrow hips like frothy, tinted whipped cream to her slender ankles. The attractiveness of her short blond curls and her delicate features were enhanced by her evenly tanned fresh young skin, plenty of which her strapless, low-cut gown revealed.

She and Hal now began climbing the steep stairs leading to the hayloft and for a brief instant were alone on them. None of Raye's loveliness was lost on Hal tonight — Hal Bedford, who prided himself upon knowing how to pick his women.

Hal, behind Raye, suddenly caught her in his arms.

Taken unawares, Raye gasped for breath. Then she took herself abruptly in hand and managed to laugh off the kiss that barely touched the tip of her saucily turned-up nose.

'Poor aim," she told him, her wild heart fighting her equilibrium as he set her down.

* * *

Something drew her eyes up to the head of the stairs. Her cheeks felt hot. There, looking down at her with a disapproving scowl, was that tall, straight, aggravating Bill Anderson!

She assumed a nonchalant air as she came up to him. She sang out with false brightness, "How do you do, Mr. Anderson! So you found your way to the party!"

"I intended to from the first," he told her curtly.

"Oh," said Raye, completely at a loss for words as she swung past him with Hal whose attempt to carry off the situation easily merely gave the impression that he was annoyed.

Raye thought Bill Anderson looked disappointed, even hurt. Perhaps where he came from debutantes didn't fall in love with husbands of good friends.

But how different her case was? She and Hal understood each other so perfectly. And when a man cannot find understanding at home, isn't he privileged to seek it elsewhere?

A dreamy waltz played by Mil Green's popular orchestra was filtering through cornstalk and pumpkin decorations, through bouquets of carrots, tomatoes, apples and beets tied incongruously to bare wooden beams in this immense air-conditioned hayloft. Lovely girls in lavish evening gowns and men in white suits made a colorful picture.

With Hal's arm tightly encircling her waist, Raye momentarily forgot to be annoyed over Bill Anderson and those hazel eyes of his that seemed to look straight through her. She forgot all but her love for Hal. For one whole evening, she could have him to herself in this dimly lighted setting that simply oozed romance. A glorious opportunity like this was rare.

Hal was not in a talkative mood, but his jet-black eyes held fervent adoration for her and a smoldering fire that she knew she could easily kindle into flame. It gave her a sense of power that was heady. But then, she hastily assured herself, it was purely unselfish love she had for Hal and nothing else entered into her feelings at all.

Time after time, men tapped Hal's shoulder, but he refused to relinquish the lovely Raye. So they danced and danced until they both were tired.

"Let's get out of this mob, dear," he finally suggested.

"Yes—let's!" she agreed eagerly.

He led her quickly toward the stairs. She was thinking of an isolated spot under a rose arbor on this sprawling estate — that place where she had been forced to listen to Rex Maine's first proposal. It was a bench set near a splashing fountain—a trysting place expressly created for lovers who longed to be alone under the stars.

She would take Hal there now. She would tell him emphatically that if Ruthie didn't begin divorce proceedings immediately, this disturbing friendship of theirs would have to end. It was getting on her nerves. Hal Bedford needn't think she would allow herself to be ridiculed. No man had ever yet made a laughingstock of her and she wouldn't allow him to be the first. She would get out from under the whole thing in time, if that was how it was threatening to terminate.

But halfway down the stairs they were met by the Grinner butler.

"Beg pardon, Mr. Bedford," he said quickly. "A telephone message just came for you. Mrs. Bedford asks you to return home at once. One of your children is ill — I believe she said it was Toots."

"Toots?" Hal exclaimed. His face paled. "Thanks, Hanson. I'm leaving at once."

He turned to Raye. "If anything should happen to one of those twins! You see how it is, don't you, Raye? I'll be back—if possible. In case I can't make it . . . "

"Will you dance with me, Miss Stone?"

Raye turned. The unsmiling Bill Anderson was on the stairs just behind her.

She looked at her astonishment. Before she could speak, Hal was saying, "Sorry, Raye! Have a good time!"

He took the last three steps at a bound and immediately disappeared from sight.

Raye stood stiffly where he had left her. Those family ties of Hal's! Would they always—come first?

Bill Anderson patiently suggested now, "Perhaps you'd like a drink."

She had forgotten him completely. She gazed absently up at him and threw back her prettily rounded shoulders.

"Yes—I believe I would," came from her, a trifle recklessly.

They joined the crowd around the bar, and were having their drinks when Rex Maine came hurriedly up to Raye to say, "I've just had a wire from Greg Gregory, one of the biggest directors of Hollywood—he gets in within an hour. I'll have to rush like mad if I reach the station in time to meet his train. Like to go with me, or shall I pick you up later?"

"If it would be any accommodation, I'd be glad to see that Miss Stone gets home. I came stag," broke in Bill Anderson.

"Thanks, Anderson. That's the best way to arrange it, Raye. You'll forgive me, won't you? If I can drag Gregory out here, I will —but he'll probably want to talk business the rest of the night."

"It's all right, Rex—don't worry about me. I'll get home safely." She realized how important a Hollywood director could be to Rex's career. "Good luck!" she called after his well-made, heavy-set figure.

"Well, you have me on your hands, you see," Raye remarked a little caustically to Bill Anderson.

"It could be worse," he said rather indifferently.

* * *

She had an impulse to shake him. But she guessed she'd have a difficult time trying to do that to so tall and muscular a man. He was a little tantalizing. His eyes held admiration and his speech cool unconcern. She wondered what it would be like if he ever were roused to something deeper than surface admiration — love even. She played with the idea a little whimsically as they walked over to the polo field where supper was being served, then abruptly discarded it as ridiculous.

They made their selection of food from a long table upon which barbecued beef, whole suckling pigs, venison, green corn and baked potatoes, together with a variety of condiments, were set in tempting array.

With their wooden plates heaped high, they settled themselves on a comfortable mound of hay at the edge of the field and began an impersonal conversation through which, however, ran a slender thread of curiosity. Raye was surprised that her animosity toward this man was rapidly evaporating.

Then he tactlessly ruined everything completely by abruptly inquiring, "How long has Hal Bedford been a family man?"

"You're insinuating there are plenty of single men a girl could —could admire?" she flung back frigidly.

"Well—more or less."

"Frankly, just what are you trying to tell me?"

"I've heard the talk—exaggerations, of course."

"You mean that here—tonight—you've heard things — think I should be reminded to—to behave myself?"

"I wouldn't presume that far. You girls in the money think you can get away with anything. Maybe you can—I wouldn't know."

He laughed and she glared up at him. She said cuttingly, "Mr. Anderson—if it wouldn't be too much to ask—would you mind taking yourself off? I'm—I'm in a very genial mood. I'd rather be alone."

(To Be Continued.)

STRESS CALMNESS

HAMILTON, N. Y. — (U.P.) — The Colgate University faculty has been urged to increase emphasis on daily classwork recitations and preparation to "calm the feeling of uneasiness and unrest growing among college students as a result of conscription and world conditions.

TRAVELS FAR

HERRIN, Ill.—(U.P.)—Ernie Garrison, 14-year-old Herrin high school student, learned to make hydrogen gas in elementary chemistry classes. He filled a toy balloon with it, attached a note giving his home address and released his home-made lighter-than-air craft.

Three months later, the note was returned from Roswell, Ga., 500 miles away, by Herman Oliver. An explanatory letter from Oliver explained that he had found the deflated balloon in a woodland while hunting.

INSURE AUTOS

ST. PAUL, Minn. —(U.P.)— The Minnesota State Bar association plans to ask the 1941 state legislature to pass a law making liability insurance compulsory for all registered automobiles.

The proposed law, being drafted by an association committee headed by J. T. Joyce of Duluth, would require a minimum of $2,000 insurance of a $2,500 deposit with the state treasurer in lieu of insurance.

MUSEUM ENRICHED

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. —(U.P.) — Among the rare art objects worth more than $50,000 received last year by Harvard University's Fogg Art Museum were an Assyrian marble bas-relief of the 9th century B.C., an unfinished painting by Piero di Cosimo, 15th century Florentine master, and a Siamese head of Buddha from the well-known Eumorfopoulos in London.

FORMAL WEDDING SOLEMNIZED SUNDAY

Miss Rosalind Morgan of Galion Becomes Bride of Herman Grossman In Spectacular Wedding Ceremony At Mansfield-Leland Hotel.

UNDER a shimmering canopy of silver spangled cloth Miss Rosalind Morgan of Galion exchanged nuptial vows with Herman J. Grossman of Muskegon, Mich., in the ballroom of the Mansfield-Leland hotel Sunday evening. The light from many candles cast a soft glow over the improvised altar at one end of the large room where Rabbi Charles Latz of Canton read the impressive formal service. More than 300 guests attended the wedding which was solemnized at 7:30 o'clock.

The altar was spectacularly fashioned with the silver cloth, arranged in canopy style with a gentle breeze playing upon it, giving an unusual background for the ceremony. Six seven branch candelibra placed on the altar highlighted the scene. Tall beauty baskets of white gladioli and stock were placed on either side of the altar and palms, ferns and other greenery were blended into a beautiful setting.

The bride approached the altar on the arm of her father, Morris Morgan, to the strains of Leibestraum. Silver white chiffon over bridal satin fashioned Miss Morgan's wedding gown which was made Grecian style with a sweetheart neckline, bishop sleeves and low gathered waistline. The full sweeping skirt lengthened into a five yard train. The lovely bridal veil worn by the bride was made by the natives of Manila, Philippine Islands, more than 45 years ago, and was worn by several friends of the bride's family for their weddings. The Juliet cap was trimmed with tiny pearls and the short veil covered the face of the bride. She carried a white prayer book on which two white orchids and a Hybrid Catleya orchid were fastened.

Miss Sylvia Frankel of Mansfield was maid of honor, and wore a gown similar in style to that of the bride's. The floor length Grecian gown was in gold chiffon and she carried a Kaferette arm bouquet of painted calla lilies tied with purple maline.

Misses Minerva and Shirley Grossman of Muskegon, sisters of the bridegroom, and Miss Frances Bernard of Galion were the bridesmaids. They wore purple chiffon gowns made on the same pattern as the maid of honor and carried gold tinted calla lilies tied with gold maline.

Eugene Glickman of Chicago was best man for Mr. Grossman. Guests were ushered to their places by Major M. Belkin of Kalamazoo, Mich., Gilbert Rothstein and Jack Schatz of Chicago, friends of the bridegroom.

Before the ceremony a violin trio played "Intermezzo." Mr. and Mrs. Gene Burns and Chester Wolfe of Ashland composed the trio. They also played the nuptial music for the processional. The ballroom was decorated with greenery and in each window were three lighted tapers. The single aisle was marked with white pillars and silver ribbon.

Wearing steel blue chiffon with embroidered trim, the bride's mother was escorted to her place by her son, Myron Morgan, of Hattiesburg, Miss. Mrs. Grossman's formal gown was of pale blue lace and crepe and both mothers wore orchid corsages. Mrs. Grossman was escorted by her son, Louise, who flew here from San Diego, Calif.

A receiving line of the bridal party was held on the mezzanine. Later a reception took place and dancing to music by Tommy Van's orchestra furnished the entertainment. At one end of the ballroom a long refreshment table was decorated with white tapers and greenery. A large tiered wedding cake was served to the many guests.

Preceding the wedding a formal dinner was served to 60 guests in the ballroom, at 4 o'clock. When dessert was served individual wedding cakes were carried in by 12 waitresses who made a procession. The only illumination in the room were the lighted sparklers on each cake. Music for the dinner was furnished by Tommy Van's orchestra.

Late in the evening the young couple left for a trip to New Orleans, La., and from there they will take a boat trip to Central America and the West Indies, returning to make their home in Muskegon, Mich.

For traveling the bride wore a black and white ensemble with black and white accessories. Her only jewelry was a rhinestone and moonstone lapel pin, the gift of the bridegroom.

Many parties have been given for the bride during recent weeks and a rehearsal dinner and party was held at the hotel Saturday evening. She was graduated from Galion high school and Ohio State university, receiving a B. S. degree in education. She was affiliated with the Alpha Epsilon Phi, national sorority. Previous to her engagement she was assistant buyer at Mandel Bros. in Chicago.

Mr. Grossman, son of Mrs. Isaac Grossman of Muskegon, Mich., is merchandise manager of the Grossman department store in Muskegon. He attended the University of Michigan and was graduated from the University of Chicago. He also studied law at Harvard. He is a member of the Phi Sigma Delta, national fraternity.

Guests were in attendance from New York, Chicago, Minneapolis, Minn., Cleveland, Dayton, Troy, N. Y., Muskegon, Akron, Columbus, Galion, Mansfield, Pittsburgh, Ft. Wayne and Hattiesburg, Miss.

Wedding Ceremonies Highlight Week-end

Pictured in their lovely formal wedding gowns are two brides of the past two days. In the top photo is Mrs. Herman Grossman, the former Rosalind Morgan of Galion, whose formal wedding was solemnized Sunday evening at the ballroom of the Mansfield-Leland hotel. In the lower picture is Mrs. Gaylord H. Bucher, who before her marriage on Saturday afternoon at the St. Mark's Lutheran church, was Miss Roselyn Mason of Mansfield.

Former Resident Of Mansfield Married Saturday

Miss Lucille Coder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Coder, of New Washington, formerly of Mansfield, and Virgil Heydinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Heydinger of New Washington, were united in marriage Saturday at 3 o'clock in Shelby. The double ring service was read by Father McFadden at the rectory.

For her wedding Miss Coder wore a dusty rose frock with navy accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses. Miss Doris Heydinger, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor and wore a dark lavender dress with matching accessories, and a corsage of daisies and sweet peas.

Dwight Coder, the bride's brother, served as best man.

Following the wedding a reception and dinner party was held at the home of the bride's parents. Misses Joanna Bishop and Helen Hoss presided. A three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bridal party centered the table. Tall lighted tapers in blue and yellow furnished the illumination.

On their return from a trip to Niagara Falls they will reside in New Washington. Mrs. Heydinger is a graduate of New Washington high school and the Betty Jean School of Beauty Culture and is now operating a beauty shop. Mr. Heydinger is a graduate of Chatfield high school and Tiffin university. He is employed at the Bremer Aluminum company. Guests from Mansfield attended the wedding.

Fashion Tips On Springtime Wardrobe Given

By AMY PORTER
(AP Fashion Editor)

THIS is the season for arm-chair shopping.

If you are wise you'll take advantage of this between-season lull to absorb fashion information that will help you buy.

Your most important spring purchase probably will be a coat, or a cape, or a suit, or all three.

Shoulders Will Slope.

In coats, watch for these points: Sloping shoulders, sometimes without any padding at all, more often with some padding placed low . . . a "natural" shoulder effect may be achieved with a dropped yoke rounding out the line . . . very full sleeves, sometimes bloused, ending several inches above the wrist bone . . . tiny collar, or no collar at all . . . easy fit through the midriff, even in princess-line coats.

A full-length cape is newer, though not so useful. Or you may choose a suit with a matching hip-length cape.

In suits, you'll find it hard to avoid a very long jacket. Yet if you are short, you should avoid it.

Color can easily lead you astray. There's so much of it, and it looks so fresh and pretty.

More Beige and Navy.

For your basic costumes, choose one not too bright color—probably beige or navy blue (you'll be seeing more beige than navy), possibly black. Then choose your main accessory color—black or brown with beige—copper or dull red with navy. After you've salted away your basics—coat, suit, and standby shoes, bag, gloves—it's time to go color mad, and many will.

The chances are your first spring purchase will be a print dress, "for wear now and later." But you won't get much good out of it later, unless you buy with your spring color scheme in mind.

Wittenberg Guild Formed Here Recently

At a meeting in the Parish House of the First Lutheran church recently, the Mansfield Wittenberg Women's Guild was formally organized. Mrs. Martin W. Wappner was elected president and Mrs. Herman L. Gilbert secretary-treasurer. Delegates were selected to represent the local group at the annual meeting on Wittenberg college campus, Wednesday, May 7th in Springfield, Ohio. These included Mrs. W. H. Wolford and Mrs. Wappner, and Mrs. Gilbert as ex-officio delegates.

On last March 5, five representatives from each of the five Lutheran churches in Mansfield held a luncheon meeting at the Mansfield-Leland hotel as guests of Mrs. Gilbert P. Voight, national president of the Wittenberg Women's Guild. At that time Mrs. Wappner was named temporary chairman of the group. Under her supervision five cars of local high school students were taken to Wittenberg to spend the day on April 16.

Wittenberg Women's Guild was begun last June during commencement activities on the campus. It has grown rapidly and already there are over 20 local guilds organized and active in Ohio, Michigan, Indiana and Kentucky. Many others are being organized now.

The annual meeting will be held on the campus May 7. Registration will begin in Koch hall at 9:30 a. m. The program will begin promptly at 10:30 a. m. in Koch hall auditorium. The annual luncheon will be held in Ferncliff dining hall at 1:00 p. m. Adjournment will be at 4:00 p. m. Every organized local guild is to send two official delegates.

Party Given For Miss Ann Besch

Miss Catherine Baki entertained recently at her home at a prenuptial party for Miss Ann Besch, who will become the bride of Frederick Kinkel, jr., at the parsonage of St. Peter's church May 3.

Hearts were the diversion of the evening, and prizes which were presented to the honoree, were won by Mrs. Ted Etzel, Mrs. Charles Springer and Miss Alice Martin. Personal gifts were presented Miss Besch by the guests. Luncheon was served at the close of the evening at a long table decorated with yellow and white appointments.

Leonard Home Scene Of Club Meeting

Schnittzelbank club members met Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Leonard, 114 South Foster street. Three guests, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Feightner and son, Leonard, of Wooster, were in attendance.

Cards were the diversion of the evening and prizes were won by Mrs. Don Leonard, Mrs. Charles Finfgeld, George Berg and George Arnold. Luncheon was served at the close of the meeting. The next meeting will be held May 31 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Seevers, east of Mansfield.

PAULINE BE BOUT WEDS DR. WILLIAMS

Mansfield Couple Tell of Marriage Solemnized Sunday At West Milton By Dr. Lewis, Uncle of the Bride.

MISS PAULINE A. BE BOUT of Mansfield exchanged nuptial vows with Dr. Robert E. Williams Sunday afternoon at West Milton in a quiet ceremony read by Dr. J. F. Lewis, uncle of the bride. Miss BeBout is the niece of Mr. and Mrs. Howard J. Be Bout, Loudonville, and Mr. Williams is the son of Mrs. Ruth Williams Orcutt and the late Rev. A. B. Williams. The single ring service was read at the Lewis home before an improvised altar of spring flowers.

For her wedding Miss Be Bout wore a powder blue crepe frock with dusty rose accessories. The dress was fashioned in simple style with a shirred bodice. Her flowers were orchids.

Mrs. Williams is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school and the Mansfield Business Training school. She is employed at the Ohio State Life Insurance company. Dr. Williams is a graduate of Warren high school and of the Medical College of the Virginia School of Dentistry. He was affiliated with the Phi Kappa Tau and Psi Omega fraternities. He is now practicing at 200 Park avenue west where they will make their home.

Sutter-Tatman Vows Read By Judge Saturday

Miss Elsie E. Sutter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sutter of near Shiloh, and Howard Tatman of Cincinnati, were united in marriage in a civil ceremony by Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch Saturday. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Gene Lightfoot of Detroit, Mich., brother-in-law and sister of the bride.

Following the service a reception for many friends and relatives was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Tatman are graduates of Ohio State university. They will make their home in Cincinnati where Mr. Tatman is associated with the Allis-Chalmers company.

Announce Engagement And Coming Marriage

Announcement was recently made of the engagement and approaching marriage of Glenn L. Mochel of Mansfield, son of Dr. and Mrs. D. A. Mochel, Cleveland, to Ardith Norma of Milwaukee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stolz. Mr. Mochel is employed at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company and is an honorary member of the local Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The wedding will be an event of June 30th at the Grand Avenue Congregational church in Milwaukee. The couple will be at home in Mansfield following the ceremony.

Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Broilier Entertained

Two of the most feted brides of the season, Mrs. James Clark and Mrs. Robert Brollier, were honored at a party recently at the Susie Janis home, Park avenue west road. Miss Jane Cunningham was hostess for the occasion when 16 guests enjoyed the diversion of bridge. Mrs. David Martin of Ashland was awarded the high score gift.

Mrs. Martin and Miss Marjorie Bolus of Sandusky were the out-of-town guests present. The group surprised the honorees with a shower of crystal gifts and the hostess gave each bride a gift of crystal. At the close of the games a luncheon was served with appointments in pink and yellow. A dainty centerpiece decorated the long table.
